Majority of Africans Resist Attack on UN

Face Problems Ike, Mac Urge

NEW YORK (UPI)—A "great majority" of the African nations support UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld in the face of Soviet attacks, a U.S. state department spokesman said today.

The statement came after President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan voiced full support for Hammarskjöld and called on the United Nations to get down to serious work on disarmament and other problems.

Eisenhower received assurances from an Ethiopian spokesman that Ethiopia backs the secretary-general in the crisis created by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's demand that he be replaced by a Soviet-style three-man presidium, or directorate.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodian chief of state, also pledged strong support to the United Nations after a conference with the president. "We feel that the great majority of African nations—new nations and older UN nations, are in strong support of Hammarskjöld, Andrew Berding the state department spokesman said.

Talks With Foreign Chiefs 'Cordial'

The state department spokesman also said that Eisenhower's meetings with a long list of foreign leaders have been "about as cordial as you could want . . . fruitful . . . extremely useful."

Eisenhower added another world dignitary to his appointments series by scheduling a meeting with Crown Prince Hassan of Morocco.

The expression of support for Hammarskjöld by Ethiopia was relayed to the president by Deputy Prime Minister Aklilu Abte Wold, the number two man in Ethiopia.

Berding said the two men agreed that aid to the crisis-ridden Congo should be channelled through the United Nations and called for full support of the Secretary-General.

The president began his personal diplomacy today with a two and a half hour discussion with Macmillan over a bacon-and-egg breakfast.

The chief executive seemed to be gaining ground rapidly in his efforts to settle

'Complete Agreement' on Role of UN

The British-American statement said the president and prime minister "were in complete agreement as to the vital role of the United Nations, particularly in the Congo crisis and the need to give full support to the secretary in his task."

The statement began by saying that the prime minister and the president at their meeting "reviewed the situation in the General Assembly of the United Nations and considered the policies best pursued by their two countries toward their common goal."

Hagerty said Eisenhower and Macmillan have been in constant touch across the Atlantic during the past week to discuss the plans for blocking Khrushchev's efforts to oust Hammarskjöld and alter the structure of the world organization.

U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home joined the president and prime minister after breakfast.

The president, according to Hagerty, has no plans to see any other foreign leaders after his afternoon appointment with Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker. He will return to Washington by air in mid-afternoon.

Nor does the president have any present plans to return to New York for another address to the United Nations.

Khrushchev Will Meet Macmillan

NEW YORK (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev today indicated a willingness to meet with British Prime Minister Macmillan. But he evaded saying whether he would meet face to face with President Eisenhower as suggested at the United Nations by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

The Russian premier spoke briefly to newsmen outside the Russians' Park Avenue headquarters shortly after he met with eight satellite leaders.

A newsman shouted to Khrushchev: "Do you plan to meet with Prime Minister Macmillan?"

Khrushchev, through an interpreter replied, "Yes, whenever we can arrange a meeting."

A United Press International newsman then shouted to Khrushchev "What about a meeting with President Eisenhower?"

The Russian leader, shaking his finger at the newsman, Edward McCarthy, said "Did he entrust you with the task of arranging a meeting with me?"

The newsman shouted back "The suggestion was made by President Nasser." But Khrushchev with a slight shrug of his shoulders turned and re-entered the delegation building.

Khrushchev and his guests appeared dour and refused earlier to answer questions when they arrived at the Soviet UN mission headquarters for an apparent strategy meeting.

Nasser Asks Summit Talk

'Man in Middle' in Behind-Scenes Diplomacy Wants Arms Talk Resumed

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Intense private diplomacy erupted into the open today when President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic asked the 15th General Assembly to request a summit meeting on disarmament between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Khrushchev, meanwhile, submitted a resolution to bring so-called neutral nations into the 10-nation disarmament committee whose deliberations collapsed in June.

Nasser—who earlier met separately with Khrushchev and Eisenhower—has been near the heart of a swirl of behind-the-scenes diplomacy that gained in intensity with the arrival of more and more heads of government at this historic assembly session.

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, en route to a luncheon appointment with India's Prime Minister Nehru, could not be reached for comment immediately on the new proposals but it was noted he spoke with Nasser Monday.

Khrushchev's call for additional members on the East-West 10-nation disarmament committee was hinted at last week in his policy speech to the General Assembly—a speech that was sharply criticized by Diefenbaker Monday.

Nasser said both Eisenhower and Khrushchev have expressed willingness to discuss disarmament again. Nasser declared:

"We therefore suggest that the General Assembly recommend that the two great leaders should, under the standard of the United Nations, meet either by themselves or together with whom you select among those who are present here, in order for them all to put, under the aegis of the United Nations, guiding rules for a new attempt toward disarmament."

Khrushchev's proposal called for an increase of the disarmament committee, which has five Communist members and five Western members, including Canada, to 15 members by the addition of India, Indonesia, the United Arab Republic, Ghana and Mexico.

The Communist members walked out of the committee in Geneva in June, saying they would bring up the whole arms question at the current assembly.

Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan has not ruled out the possibility of meeting Khrushchev in new talks but Eisenhower has firmly rejected any suggestion of talking with the Russian unless he released two downed RB-47 flyers and met other unspecified conditions.

First U.S. reaction to Khrushchev's disarmament proposal was cool, a spokesman saying the problem is not the structure of the disarmament group but "of willingness of the Soviet Union to negotiate an equitable and realistic agreement."

New West Protest On Berlin Status

BERLIN (UPI)—The United States, Britain and France sent another note to the Soviet Union today reasserting Berlin's four-power status and protesting anew against Communist travel restrictions in the city.

The note, signed by the western commandants in Berlin and delivered by French commandant Gen. Jean Lamotte to Soviet commandant Maj. Gen. Nikolai Zakharov, also warned the Russians they will be held responsible for any interference with the three western air corridors to the isolated city.

The western note replied to a Soviet note of Sept. 13 which in turn answered an allied protest over travel restrictions.

The new message stressed that the western allies retain full rights throughout Berlin, and that East Berlin is not part of East Germany.

The East Germans claim all four-power agreements on the city are dead.

"The Soviet Union cannot reject the responsibility for Berlin it shares with France, Great Britain and the United States," the note said.

"The three allied powers . . . continue to make the Soviet government fully and completely responsible for air security, which it has to guarantee, in the air corridors."

On Aug. 31 the Soviet clamped a rigid five-day check on all West Germans traveling to Berlin to weed out alleged "militarists and revanchists" attending a refugee meeting here. They also barred West Germans from East Berlin during the meeting.

On Sept. 8, they closed East Berlin to all West Germans without a special visa.

Today's note said both actions "openly violate the right of free travel within Berlin and are in direct contradiction to the Paris agreement of June 20, 1949."

This agreement ended the Berlin blockade.

The note made no mention of the East German attempt to "control" U.S. ambassador Walter C. Dowling as he entered East Berlin last Thursday.

The United States protested the East German action to Zakharov Monday, saying the Communist police had no authority over Dowling.

Ultimatum Given Ghana By Mobutu

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Congolese Army strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu gave Ghana and Guinea troops two weeks to pull out of the Congo, in retaliation against their support of deposed premier Patrice Lumumba, army sources reported.

They said Mobutu delivered his ultimatum at a meeting between representatives of his "College of High Commissioners" and representatives of the United Nations here.

Mobutu, who took over the Congo earlier this month, also moved ahead with plans for a round table conference of warring Congolese political factions to stabilize the government.

He was reported to have been acting under army pressure and to have notified both President Joseph Kasavubu, who deposed Lumumba earlier this month, and the deposed premier of his intentions.

Lumumba was reported to have agreed to the project. Kasavubu's reaction was not immediately known.

$1 Million Fire Damage At Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Five firemen suffered minor injuries Monday night when the second floor of a building collapsed during a three-alarm fire in central Vancouver.

Fireman Ron Williams, 27, was taken to hospital with a leg cut, suffered when he was forced to leap from a window as the roof of the building collapsed at the height of the blaze.

Another fireman was treated for a cut knee and released. Two others suffered minor cuts and another was overcome by smoke.

There were no other reported injuries in the stubborn fire, which caused an estimated $1,000,000 damage.

DRYGOODS BUILDING

The blaze broke out in the industrial section at Fourth and Main Streets in the wholesale drygoods building of Hamilton Harvey Ltd.

Goods in the building, which was demolished, ranged from chesterfields to electrical appliances, and were insured for $500,000.

The fire is believed to have started on the top floor and quickly spread to the main floor area. The owners, working in the warehouse of the building, said they heard an explosion on the second floor, investigated and turned in the first alarm about 6:30 p.m.

It was not brought under control until 9 p.m.

Flaming Death for 30 In Crash of Airliner

MOSCOW (AP)—A four-engined Austrian turbo-prop. airliner crashed in fog and rain near Moscow airport Monday night. An Austrian Embassy spokesman said 30 of the 37 persons aboard died in the fiery wreckage.

All seven survivors were reported injured.

They included two attaches at the U.S. Embassy here—air force Maj. Edward Wooten and army Maj. Willis H. Knipe.

The Austrian spokesman said one of the British-built Viscount's four engines apparently caught fire during the approach to the airport. The airliner tore into a wooded area west of the airport, leaving a 400-yard gash in the field before coming to a halt.

It immediately burst into flames, burning at least 25 of the victims.

The wife of Major Wooten told newspaper men after a visit to her husband in the hospital that he was "not too badly off." Major Knipe suffered burns.

The two Americans were travelling with two other western military attaches, Sqdn. Ldr. L. J. Cooke, the assistant British air attaché, and Lt. Col. Paul Bertrand, the assistant French air attaché.

Wooten told his wife that Cooke was killed and Bertrand injured.

The plane, on a flight from Vienna to Moscow's Sheremetyevo airport, crashed in a remote area of fields and woods near the little town of Trukovo, four miles from Moscow.

A spokesman for the Austrian Airlines said five of the six crew members were killed. An Austrian hostess escaped.

Burned Up at Boy Friend? Not Ever-Loving Margaret

LONDON (AP)—Douglas Guest, 23, was brought into court at Rotherham, in Yorkshire, Monday, accused of assaulting his girl friend, Margaret Farmer.

She tormented him, he said, and he was madly jealous.

One evening, testified prosecutor Charles Shaw, Guest dragged 19-year-old Margaret to a hotel parking lot and told her:

"I am going to make your face so nobody else will look at you."

He burned her cheek with a cigarette.

The next night he forced his way into her home, hit her and kicked her.

The night after that Margaret got a cigarette burn on the other cheek.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

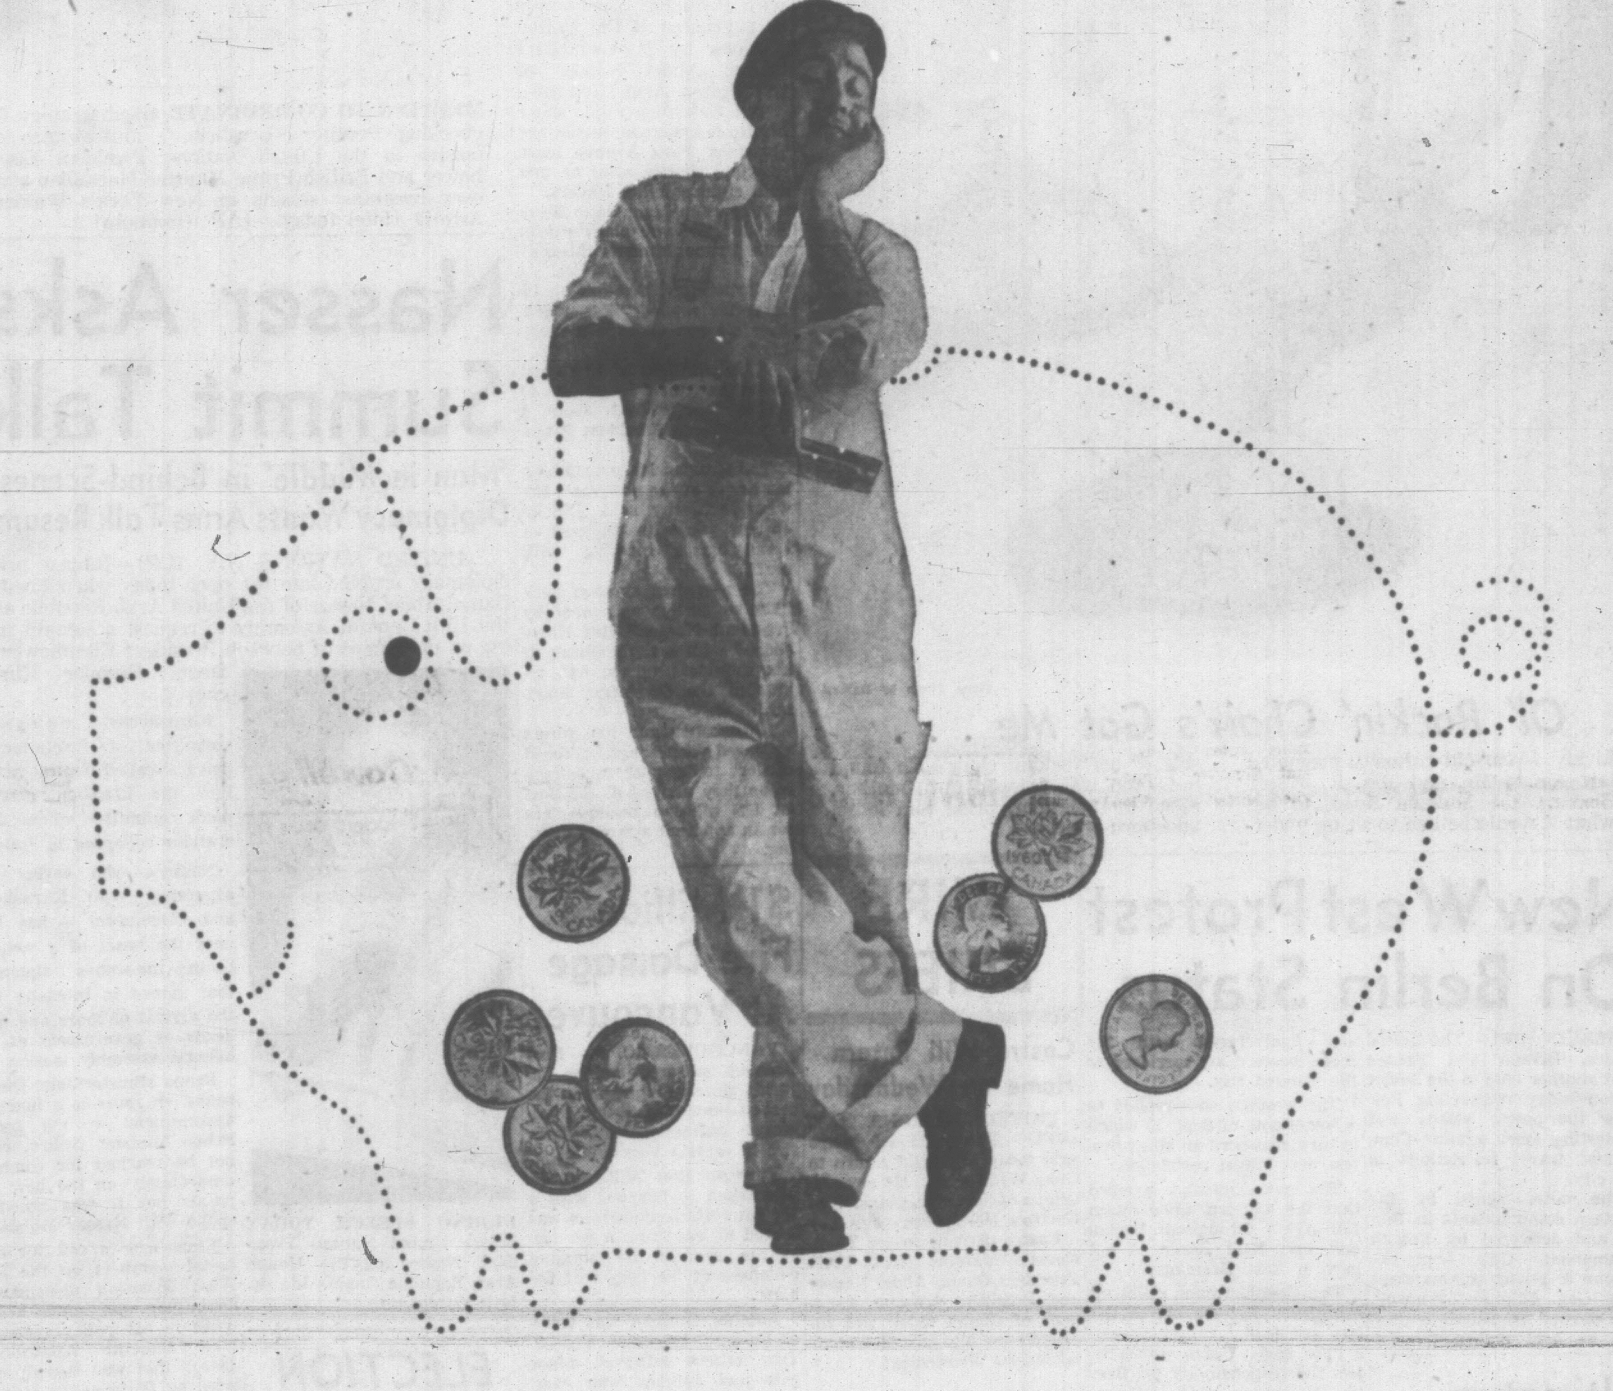

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

build with a piggy-bank budget Money is the most important material of all in any building or remodelling project. Contractors know it. Do-it-yourselfers know it.

But in building or remodelling a large amount of money does not automatically ensure quality. It helps, but it's no guarantee.

The guarantee of quality lies in the material, and fortunately, Western Gypsum products can provide the quality guarantee along with honest-to-goodness economy.

That's one of the reasons why Western Gypsum products are kept busy in homes, on farms, in industry — wherever economy is as important as good, solid, fireproof construction.

Before you build, before you remodel or repair, find out how Western Gypsum products can do the job better, easier, and save you money. If you need a specialist to help, your supplier can make suggestions. Gypsum and gypsum products have been in the building business for centuries — and that's just about the best guarantee for any building material!

Political Seers Call It 'Draw' Both Candidates Seem Satisfied

CHICAGO (UPI) — Political experts today viewed the historic first TV debate between Vice-President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy as a draw.

Early reaction from politicians suggested that both presidential nominees got in some licks Monday night but neither was hurt badly in the first round of their four round nationwide TV bout.

Whether there was a winner, or will be after the three succeeding debates, will be determined only at the polls in November.

The principals seemed happy with the show.

"It was a good sharp exchange of views," Nixon said.

"I think it was very useful," Kennedy said, adding that "I hope it clarified some of the issues on which we and our two parties differ."

Presidential Foes In Historic Debate

QUESTION ANSWER COMMENT

CHICAGO (LPI) — Here in topical summary are pertinent quotes from the TV debate between Vice-President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy:

PROGRAM

Kennedy — "I don't believe in big government, but I believe in effective governmental action."

Nixon — "His programs would lead to the stagnation of the motive power that we need in this country to get progress."

POVERTY

Kennedy — "I saw cases in West Virginia . . . where children took home part of their school lunch in order to feed their families."

Nixon — "Sen. Kennedy has suggested . . . that we lack compassion for the poor . . . I know what it means to be poor."

FARM

Kennedy — "The only policy that will work will be for effective supply and demand to be in balance, and that can only be done through governmental action."

Nixon — "I would propose holding (farm) income up not through a type of program that Sen. Kennedy has suggested that would raise prices, but one that would indemnify the farmer, pay the farmer in kind from the products which are in surplus."

PRICES

Nixon — "The prices you pay went up five times as much in the Truman administration as they did in the Eisenhower administration."

Kennedy — "Mr. Truman came to office in 1944 (and in) 1946 price controls were lifted, so it is rather difficult . . . taking those seven and one-half years and comparing them to the last eight years."

POWER

Kennedy — "At the present rate of hydro power production . . . the Soviet Union by 1975 will be producing more power than we are."

Nixon — "We have developed more hydro-electric power in these seven and one-half years than was developed in any previous administration in history."

SCHOOLS

Kennedy — "I am not satisfied when many of our teachers are inadequately paid or when our children go to school in part-time shifts."

Nixon — "We have built more schools in this seven and one-half (years) (than) in the previous 20 years."

EXPERIENCE

Kennedy — "The vice-president and I came to the congress together in 1946 . . . our experience in government is comparable."

Nixon — "His experience has been different from mine. Mine has been in the executive branch, his has been in the legislative branch."

Millions See Nixon Stand on Record As Kennedy Demands Greater Progress

CHICAGO (AP) — The 1960 presidential campaign gained momentum Monday night from an hour-long clash on television of the rival candidates.

Vice-President Richard Nixon and Senator John Kennedy opened up over their differences on farm, school, housing, medical care for the elderly and other domestic issues before a huge television-radio audience.

Nixon hammered away on the argument that his Republican programs will move Americans forward "on the wonderful record we have made over the last 7½ years."

On the other hand, Nixon said, health, education, housing, farm, elderly medical care and other proposals advanced by Kennedy, would boost federal spending by anywhere from $2,000,000,000 to $4,100,000,000.

Kennedy insisted his program can be included in a carefully-drawn balanced budget "if our economy is moving ahead."

Kennedy seemed to be quicker to answer questions, sometimes even before they were finished, and Nixon was quick.

No Cheers, So Sparkle Dulled

CHICAGO (UPI) — There were no cheering thousands to greet John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon to the heights of political oratory Monday night.

Instead, they heard only the inquiring voices of a television panel, the occasional click of a camera lens, the squeak of a tripod.

No friendly faces were in sight—only three blinking TV cameras, two long-armed microphone booms, the shadowy forms of the crews that operated them and, overhead, great banks of brilliant lights.

Outside the soundproof doors of the cavernous studio, Nixon and Kennedy left their entourages of advisers — the highest-powered campaign organizations ever assembled by White House aspirants. Their video experts were sealed up in the control room nearly 60 feet distant, too far away to signal advice.

For the first time in their campaigns, Nixon and Kennedy were strictly on their own — and the loneliness and pressure were reflected in their nervousness and their grave demeanor.

Speaking for Humanity

IN HIS MAJOR SPEECH TO the United Nations General Assembly, Prime Minister Diefenbaker did well to stress the importance of maintaining the contact between East and West through negotiation. That contact has been largely lost during the past year—the distance between Camp David and Paris was far more than geographical—and the diplomatic gap yawns wide between Russia and the democracies even though their representatives share the same building in New York.

The United Nations Assembly, on such a summit-high occasion as the present session, provides an opportunity for the statement of cases, for attacks, for promises, for boasts. But the Assembly meetings do not offer any opportunity for negotiation—the give and take of discussion from which may be derived some form of agreement.

Corridor and lounge talks may evoke frank statements of policy as members mingle after the formal sessions, but the atmosphere of "armed camps" now pervading the New York site is not conducive to progress.

The peace of the world depends on the settlement—and if not settlement, at least control—of the disagreements between the major powers. Such control or settlement cannot be achieved without personal contact of diplomatic representatives. And that contact has almost disappeared.

This constitutes a dangerous situation which should not be permitted to continue.

Chief among the points to be negotiated is disarmament, which since the breakdown of the Geneva meeting has been at a standstill. And it is not for lack of machinery, as Mr. Diefenbaker pointed out. The lack, he said, "is mutual confidence and a genuine good will on the part of the Soviet side to negotiate... there can be no easy coexistence with the unknown."

The Canadian proposals for disarmament, for space control and other measures are not new. They have been advanced before, and follow closely the general plan of the Western powers. This is true also of Canada's plans for aid to needy countries. But our contribution in the latter field is increasing—as witness the millions now being appropriated for help in India and Pakistan, for aid to Commonwealth countries in Africa, for Colombo Plan assistance and other programs. Some of these projects are assisted through the UN World Bank and allied agencies—a valuable part of the United Nations' work.

Mr. Diefenbaker carried to the UN no great new solution to the world's ills, no over-all remedy to bring harmony out of conflict. But he voiced the fears and the wishes of the middle and small powers, the hope of the "little man" of all free nations that the world will not be brought down in destruction about his ears through the ambition or arrogance of those who wield the power of life and death.

In so doing, he rendered a useful public service, and will have earned a "well done" from his fellow Canadians.

The New Denver Gesture

WHEN JAPANESE LIVING on British Columbia's coast were moved inland during the war, some misgivings were expressed over the relocation, although the action was considered essential.

Canada could not run the risk of leaving a colony on the sensitive seaboard where an enemy agent might be concealed. Moreover, since the countries were at war, public sentiment on the coast could only make life uncomfortable for the people involved.

Hence it was necessary to send them to an area where any possible danger to Canada would be minimized. New Denver, north of Nelson, was chosen for their temporary domicile.

At the same time a widespread feeling existed that many British Columbia residents of Japanese origin had suffered from this forced move. They had been shifted from the places where they had made their homes and had been required to go to points determined by the authorities.

Against the background of those events and misgivings, the action of the Canadian Nisei Association at Tokyo takes on gratifying significance. That organization has made a gift to the village of New Denver of a ceramic garden set, 12 Japanese dolls, specimens of culture pearls and a selection of cherry trees to start a Japanese garden. The gift is from Canadian-born Japanese who returned to Japan after the war and have chosen this means of thanking the people of the British Columbia community for "hospitality and kindness during a time of trouble."

This is a gentle gesture which should be gratifying to the people of New Denver. It should be gratifying also to other Canadians to know that among them were citizens able to win the affection of the evacuees during that "time of trouble."

The Ramparts We Watch

MR. RODERICK HAIG-Brown, whose adult life has largely been dedicated to conservation, has raised the banner against a "Coney Island" invasion of Canada's natural parks.

He speaks with authority on the matter—and doubtless with the backing of thoughtful people in this country and this province.

"Coney Islands" have their recreational value. They provide entertainment and relaxation of a type for large numbers of people. In their proper place they serve a purpose—and a recreational one at that.

But Mr. Haig-Brown is on completely sound ground when he raises his cry against such commercial intrusion into places of natural beauty and wilderness splendor. These are heritages which future generations should be able to enjoy in their unspoiled grandeur. They represent attractions which older nations on more crowded continents have learned to cherish.

The present generation betrays the trust placed in it if it does not hold unblemished for the future big parks and recreation areas that will become increasingly important as our people seek escape from the pressure of urban living. Mr. Haig-Brown sees them as vital essentials to meet the "fourth need of man," recreation, which the distinguished author places close behind food, shelter and clothing.

Power at Sea

IT IS A REFLECTION OF THE times in which we live that the first nautical application of nuclear power should have been in a naval submarine. That trend is continued in last week's launching of an American aircraft carrier. The $450-million sea-going giant, 1,100 feet in length, is the largest ship ever built and will be able to circumnavigate the earth 20 times without refueling.

The Will to Go On

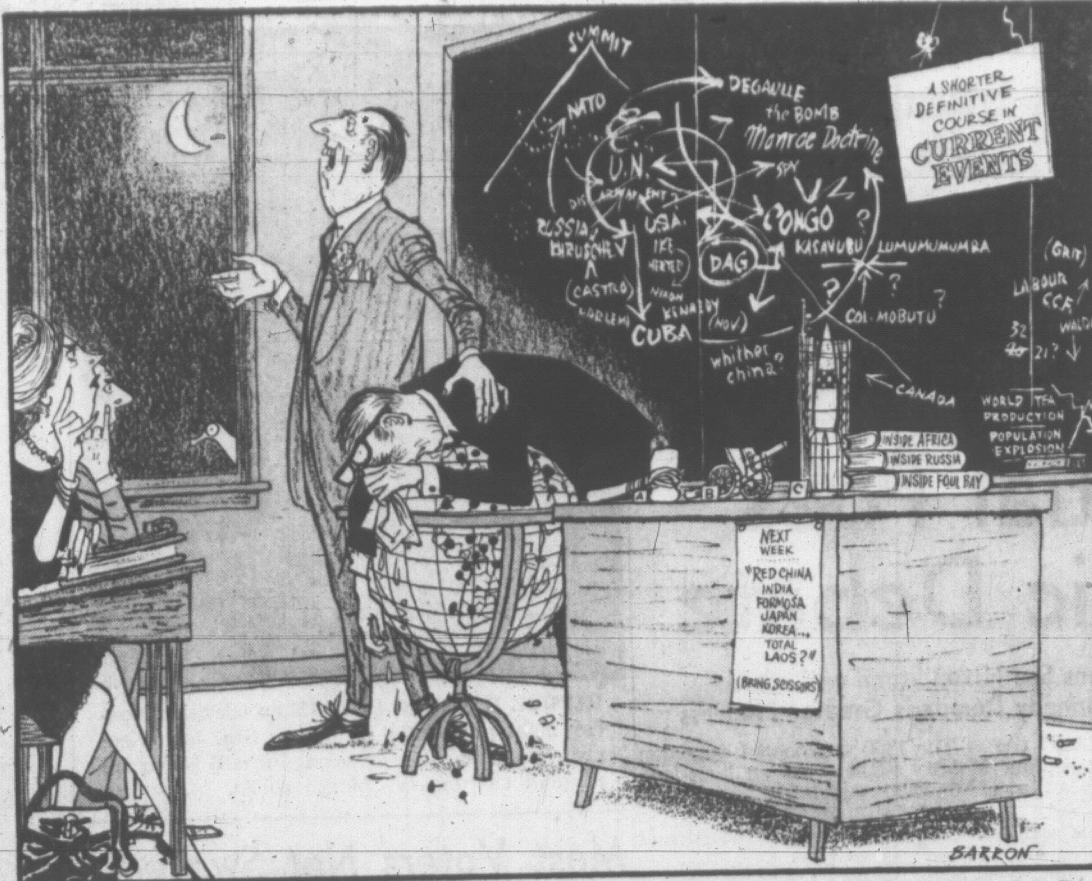

DR. D. C. BEWS OF THE BELL Telephone Company serves a useful purpose in directing Canadian attention to the manner in which President Eisenhower "managed" his various illnesses.

In rapid succession, Dr. Bew's points out, President Eisenhower suffered a coronary thrombosis, abdominal disorder, major surgery and a minor stroke. A man of the President's years might reasonably have retired from active affairs following any one of those conditions. Mr. Eisenhower chose not to quit.

Dr. Bew's points to this example to illustrate his point that no one should consider himself "finished" on the basis of medical evidence alone. The individual's willingness to carry on should be considered.

This makes sense, the kind of sense we should heed in what may be called recuperative medicine. Will and determination still operate as excellent aids to recovery, as many former invalids who have overcome their incapacities have proven.

UNITED NATIONS, NEW YORK

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Words at the UN vs. Action in Africa

WHEN NIKITA S. KHRUSHCHEV stomped to the rostrum of the United Nations with arrogant self-confidence, he ought to have borrowed the language of the old psalmist's chant of victory. He should have intoned: "The UN is my wash-pot; over Africa will I cast out my shoe; Latin America, be thou glad of me!" That gives the best idea of Khrushchev's tone before the United Nations, at any rate. And the tone Khrushchev took, on this important occasion, was more truly significant than the substance of what he had to say.

Alsop

In the ludicrously unreal atmosphere of the modern parliament of man, the substance of Khrushchev's outrageous UN speech is of course getting a lot of attention. The UN delegates of the "uncommitted nations" are supposed to have been gratifyingly impressed by the contrast between Khrushchev's violence and President Eisenhower's moderation. Only conversation about the weather could be less meaningful.

It is perfectly natural for people to think that the president is a very nice man, and that Khrushchev is not a very nice man; but, alas, it is also perfectly meaningless if they do so.

Success or Failure

What has meaning, in this harsh world, is the success or failure of the nice man or the evil man. And Khrushchev's arrogance resulted, quite obviously, from expectation of success, just as his violence reflected his fury over a partial setback in the Congo.

The drama in the Congo was the direct cause of Khrushchev's shocking attack on UN secretary-general Hammarskjöld. Yet the Congo story also indicates why Khrushchev expects success in his world plan.

In the Congo, it must be understood, the Soviet design to establish a Communist base in the rich heart of Africa has had the active support, from the very outset, of the two most significant independent powers of the African Continent, Egypt and Ghana. And this Soviet design has also had the useful aid of another African nation, Guinea, which has contributed troops to the UN force in the Congo.

The extent of this support for the Soviet design has been revealed by documents captured after Col. Mobutu's military coup d'etat had temporarily broken the power of the Soviet-front man in the Congo, Patrice Lumumba.

These documents, thus far unpublished, have been forwarded to the UN by the Congo government, with the request, thus far totally ignored, for the removal of the Guinea and Ghana contingents in the UN force in the Congo.

The light thrown on the role of the Ghana leader Kwame Nkrumah, is especially interesting.

Trained Officers

The documents show the organization, with Ghana's aid, of an immense influx into the Congo of specially trained Russian military officers and other technical personnel. No less than 500 visas were issued to such Soviet agents in a single week by the Ghana Ambassador in Moscow. The transit of these people to the Congo was also assisted by Ghana.

In this manner, quite largely by the agency of one of the countries supposedly acting for the UN in the Congo, a horde of 2,000 Soviet and Czech personnel had moved into the Congo. They were well on the way to taking over all key positions there, when Col. Mobutu staged his military coup d'etat.

Thereafter, as the captured documents also show, the Ghana Government actually ordered its forces in the Congo to defy United Nations orders.

if this was necessary to protect Soviet front man Lumumba from arrest.

As these words are written, Lumumba is still being duly protected. At the same time, the representatives of Tunisia and Morocco have also combined with the Egyptians, the Ghanaians, and the Guineans, in order to put heavy, joint pressure on Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu to give his unhappy country back to Patrice Lumumba.

The outcome is uncertain. But it is clearly better to judge the opinions of "uncommitted nations" by their actions in this critical situation in the Congo, than by any vapors here in the United Nations.

Ugly Question

The ugly question remains, why these five governments, none of them Communist, should apparently wish to install a Communist controlled government in the very heart of the African continent? In each case, there are special reasons.

Egypt's Gamal Abdul Nasser is oblivious to any considerations, for instance, except considerations of his own short run advantage in the contest for Arab leadership. For this, he wants Khrushchev's continuing help.

Again, Kwame Nkrumah, of Ghana, has been all but mesmerized by Geoffrey Bing, an English Communist. Bing, whom Nkrumah has made attorney-general of Ghana, in turn handled all the transactions involved in Ghana's aid to the Soviet design in the Congo.

But these local and special reasons would be unimportant, without a more general reason. Without this general reason, for example, Nkrumah would not be turning to his other English adviser, Sir Robert Jackson, the brilliant son of the brilliant Barbara Ward. And this general reason is the flabby deterioration of the American and Western World position, which has persuaded people like Nkrumah that Khrushchev represents the way of the future.

'Ross Hall'?

Through the medium of your paper I would like to say that almost without exception the people of B.C. realize how Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross have distinguished and endeared themselves to us by their conscientious hard work and devotion to duty for the welfare of B.C. during their term of office.

In addition they have given so lavishly in the way of valuable furniture to the present new Government House. Would it not be a nice gesture, and a tribute to their memory (i.e., if it could be done) to name Government House "Ross Hall," or "Ross House"?

I wonder what other readers think of this suggestion.

Remember 'Silent Cal'?

I read with great interest Prime Minister Diefenbaker's reply when asked by a reporter if B.C.'s new Lieutenant-Governor would be a British Columbian. "I have never found," said the Prime Minister, "that such appointments are characterized by importation."

What this faintly cosmic declaration seems to mean is, "Yes!"

Why people in politics employ this gorgeously garrulous gobbledygook is a mystery to me and probably a lot of other ordinary folks.

We can sympathize with innocently evasive answers if the desired information is to be withheld for reasons of policy; but if it is O.K. to give the answers, it should be O.K. to give them in simpler, terser form.

If Mr. Diefenbaker (or any other politician with the same habit) had been the one to make that famous Gettysburg address we hear so much about even on this side of the border, it probably would have sounded something like:

"If all the information currently on hand with respect to this country's settlement is carefully accumulated and examined, it will be found (barring new discoveries) that this nation was founded approximately 87 years ago, although due regard must certainly be paid to those whose opinions regarding the precise date are at variance, slight or otherwise, with the data currently held as official. It behooves us, therefore ... and so on, and so on."

The strange thing is that Mr. Diefenbaker is an uncommonly electrifying speaker. I, for one, am driven to watch and/or hear him whenever he makes a speech. Perhaps it is this very reputation for being such a forceful orator that impels him to make such weighty statements. After all, how can anyone build a reputation as an effective speaker by saying, "Yes," "No," "Perhaps," "Uh-huh," and the like?

GEORGE R. DAVIS, 2705 Cook Street.

Right at Home

It has been reported that the estate where Premier Khrushchev is playing lord of the manor was formerly a Standard Oil man's home, and Nik undoubtedly feels right at home. (Soviet's UN delegation estate.)

There's no reason why the chief salesman for the products of Russian exploitation shouldn't feel relaxed among the results of the same process in the good old U.S.A. They are the same species of social phenomena. Just because one is camouflaged in the stars and stripes and the other hides behind a red flag is no more indicative of a basic difference in social system than the hair of a black dog makes him a different species from a red dog.

Declaration Of War

By MAX FREEDMAN

UNITED NATIONS, New York.—Secretary of State Herter spoke for the Western nations when he described Mr. Khrushchev's speech Friday as "a declaration of war" against the purposes of the United Nations, the organization structure of the world organization, and the authority of Secretary Hammarskjöld. He also interpreted Mr. Khrushchev's statement on colonialism as "inflammatory" since it amounted to an "incitement" to all the colonial peoples to stage an immediate revolt.

Mr. Herter refused to encourage Mr. Khrushchev's hope that some months from now a summit conference will be held at which, among other matters, a peace treaty with Germany could be considered.

The Secretary of State thought this suggestion failed to establish any firm hope that renewed negotiations with Russia would be either advisable or rewarding. He saw Mr. Khrushchev's proposal as yet another attempt to revive the Berlin crisis, create a new agitation for a separate peace treaty with East Germany, and expose Western rights and interest in Berlin to increased harassment.

Brutal Directness

And Mr. Herter, like other Western leaders, cannot hide his anxiety over the future status of Secretary-General Hammarskjöld who has now been challenged with almost brutal directness by the Russian Government. The rules of procedure at the United Nations forbid an immediate vote of confidence from being given the Secretary-General, a measure which many nations would reject to sponsor. There is no way, in short, of stopping a long and cruel debate on Mr. Hammarskjöld's conduct during the Congo crisis, even though he will unquestionably win the support of a vast majority of members once the debate has finished.

Will Mr. Hammarskjöld be satisfied with this verdict or will he believe that his position has been compromised beyond hope or recovery by this personal attack on his leadership by one of the five permanent members of the Security Council?

It should be recalled that Russia has always stood in a special relationship to the Secretary-General. When the United Nations first faced the problem of selecting its Secretary-General, the choice would probably have fallen on Mr. L. B. Pearson, if not for the opposition of Russia to the Canadian statesman.

After the start of the Korean War when Russia resented the influence of Secretary-General Trygve Lie the Soviet government refused to have any more dealings with him and conducted all its affairs through the assistant secretary-general who in turn transmitted the Russian proposals to Mr. Lie.

Russian opposition clouded Mr. Lie's remaining years in office and greatly reduced his effectiveness as an impartial servant of world peace. The same fate now faces Mr. Hammarskjöld unless the leading members of the United Nations—of which Canada undeniably is one—show enterprise and courage in isolating the Communist protest and in reaffirming the undiminished authority of the Secretary-General.

Crushing Repudiation

It is significant that Mr. Herter recoiled from Mr. Khrushchev's proposals for the Congo because they represent an indirect but crushing repudiation of Mr. Hammarskjöld's recommendations and policies. There are, in other words, two distinct threats to the Secretary-General. The first is a direct and brutal criticism of Mr. Hammarskjöld personally which will fall for many reasons, including its own clumsy cruelty. The other is a subtle and complicated attack which masks its purpose under a plan for restoring peace and order to the shaken Congo.

Russia will win an immense and dangerous victory if there is any misguided attempt by the West to defeat a personal censure of Mr. Hammarskjöld by accepting part or all of the Soviet's program for the Congo.

The non-Communist world can preserve its principles only by defeating both Soviet strategies. It will be a squalid humiliation if Mr. Hammarskjöld receives an ultimate vote of confidence but is compelled to follow a totally new policy in the Congo.

A victory for Russia would mean that in the future no Secretary-General could take any effective action in Africa or elsewhere if Russia disapproved of that action. Under this rule the United Nations would quickly cease to be a forum of peace and would become at best a fraud, at worst an instrument of Soviet policy.

Ultimate Challenge

The campaigns against Mr. Hammarskjöld therefore cannot be discussed in personal terms but must be seen as an ultimate challenge to the very foundations and purposes of the world organization.

Mr. Khrushchev of course made a sustained and skillful plea to the nations of Africa to regard the Soviet Union as their friend and protector. It may be nauseating to see the master of enslaved Eastern Europe parade before the United Nations as the enemy of imperialism; but this exercise in hypocrisy has fascinated the General Assembly and it may deceive some leaders into believing that they can enter into a profitable association with the Soviet Union.

Above all Mr. Khrushchev knows the value of the old diplomatic proverb that the shortest way to Washington is via Moscow.

The new states may pretend to be friends with Russia to increase their bargaining power in negotiations with the U.S.A. A more dangerous gamble can scarcely be conceived.

For Mr. Khrushchev will know how to convert these overtures of friendship into a real alliance, or at the very least to require the new nations to remain neutral when their true interests would bring them into partnership with the free world.

Blues in the Night

THERE'S not much hope, I guess, for the musical ear of a man who has listened for so many years to the Trial Island fog-horn that he has come to like it. Anyone who can become attached to the moaning grunt of a mechanical instrument on a misty night suffers from a locational handicap.

Stott

It's no use trying to convince the millions who love the haunting cadence of a genuine train whistle that there is anything akin to its sound in the attenuated male sob of the horn at Trial. Train whistles—the real articles—they'll tell you, are the musical embodiment of far-off places, of the mystic loneliness of empty prairies, of the pulsing thread of life moving through wild, often barren land, the song of a friendly soul that stays just beyond the haunts of men.

How, they'd want to know, can you compare this to the prolonged, coughing belch induced by fog on the digestive system of a machine?

You can't, I suppose. I like train whistles, too. But I'm fond of the Trial Island fog-horn also. I've become accustomed to it, like Professor Higgins to Eliza Doolittle.

The baritone (or is it basso?) of the island is one of the voices that come through my window from the night at this season. And when the mists lift, it is succeeded by the friendly hum of fishboat engines as commercial craft pass down the Strait in search of the run.

When the sounds of day are stilled, they take on the murmur of friendly voices, unharried, unexcited, talking to a sympathetic ear.

You come to listen for these notes in the night's darkness when you live by the water. They are part of the sequence of things in the process of composure that leads to easy sleep.

Familiarity lends them an appeal. There is nothing lovely in the harsh cry of a heron floating down, a darker shape against the dark sky, to roost in the kelp bed. This is the agonized protest of a soul doomed to wander in the wastelands—a broken phrase from tortured orchestration escaped from the underworld. First heard, it lifts the hair at the nape of your neck.

Over the years, it becomes a nocturnal greeting, a gravel-voiced "Goodnight" from the long-legged wader who looks so formal as he stalks the shallows in daytime.

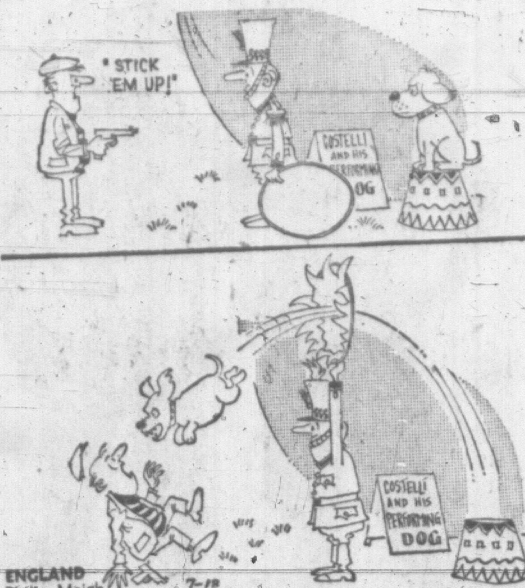

You come to accept it as you turn your head to a more comfortable place on the pillow and tell yourself that old Ichabod's going to bed too.

A little later, as fall moves toward winter and the ducks come to the bay, night will echo to the querulous gutturals of mallards disturbed in their rest, throaty complaint against some noise or movement that has broken their sleep.

And then will come the gales, screaming in from the plunging strait, the throb and pound of breakers hitting the rocks, the whistle of wind under the eaves, the drumming slash of rain on the windows.

The storm will sweep by and the water, troubled, restless, will sink to near calm but never perfect stillness. It will make its gentle, liquid music as small waves lift on the shore, break softly and fall back in little, metallic sounds clear on the cold air.

There's not much hope for the musical ear of a man attuned to these fractured symphonies, discords and assorted noises. No hope at all, I guess, until some beachcomber's Gershwin comes along. No latter day Spike Jones will be acceptable.

PM GETS LOCKED OUT BETWEEN NOTED GUESTS

NEW YORK (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker, saying goodbye to President Nkrumah of Ghana and hello to Italian Foreign Minister Segni, found himself locked outside the Waldorf Astoria suite where he was receiving visitors Monday.

The lock had snapped shut as Diefenbaker and External Affairs Minister Green were escorting Nkrumah to the elevator after an hour-long talk in the 22nd-storey suite. An aide stepped forward with a key, and Segni was ushered in for his session with the Canadian leader.

"It's almost as easy to get out of jail as it is to get into this building," said the prime minister of the security-surrounded hotel on Park Avenue where many visiting leaders are staying while attending the UN Assembly.

Sex Education Program Approved by Churchmen

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A Church law at present does not allow ordination of women as ministers, but allows women to be licensed as preachers and pastors if their educational attainments are equal to those required of ministers.

The general executive was instructed to appoint a committee to formulate a sex education program to counteract "growing immorality among youth."

Approval of the resolution followed a report delivered over the weekend noting "a rising tide of immorality" and an increase in the number of unwed mothers beyond the rate of population increase.

The conference Monday gave overwhelming approval to women licensed as preachers and pastors being allowed to solemnize marriages "wherever it is in accordance with provincial laws and regulations."

WINNIPEG (CP) — The postwar baby crop will bring a big increase in Canada's labor force, posing the problem of successful absorption, Deputy Trade Minister James A. Roberts said today.

The impact will fall on the manufacturing and trades and services industries which are the main employers now, he told the provincial government's trade and industry council.

In the light of such shifting conditions, it was possible in the immediate future that the government might have to "go

Mr. Roberts' remarks were contained in a text of his address issued to the press before delivery.

Dealing with Canada's industrial growth and modern technology, he noted that 14 per cent more workers were in industry in the period 1950-59, and employment in trade and services increased by 48 per cent in that span.

Pool Investments Soaring

LONDON—Speaking mostly of sports... In the soccer season which has just started, the investment by the British public in football pools is expected to pass the magic 100,000,000-pound mark.

Back in 1955, the 10 million people who do the pools regularly staked 52,000,000 pounds over the season. By last year this figure had jumped to more than 90,000,000 pounds.

Reason for the sharp rise: Nothing more than the basic greed in human nature, I suppose.

Prior to 1957 the pools companies restricted the first dividend to 75,000 pounds, distributing the surplus among the second, third and fourth dividend winners on a "fair shares for all" basis.

Then one of the companies, Littlewoods, scrapped the first dividend limit—and people started having breath-taking wins of 300,000 pounds and more.

What's a mere 75,000 quid? But a prize of 300,000—now you're talking! So—they're investing more and more to try to cop the big one.

State of the Nation Note: the pools pro-motors collect annually four times as much as the government spends on building hospitals.

Brendan Behan's The Hostage is another British show at New York (Toronto) and the wild Irishman has gone into training to ensure that he doesn't suffer the same fate as that wild Welshman, Dylan Thomas.

As much a self-confessed drunk as Dylan Thomas, who died from the effects of alcohol in New York, Behan has sworn off the stuff for his North America visit—and forever, he hopes.

Up the road from St. James' Park, Frank Hume, a portly character in a broad-rimmed hat, has been selling birdfood to tourists in Trafalgar Square for the past 15 years, and he has become an expert on pigeon-feeders.

He says that apart from the English themselves, the Italians are by far the most friendly towards the pigeons. Least chummy with the birds? Americans. "They don't mind standing across the road and watching, but they won't come close," he says. "They're too scared of getting their clothes soiled."

And Canadians? "Standoffish at first, like the Americans, but with Canada House just 50 yards away they see a lot of the pigeons and soon join in among the other tourists."

Israeli Mail Banned

CAIRO (Reuters) — A ban on the carrying of Israeli mail by aircraft flying over Arab territory was announced here Monday by an Arab League spokesman. He said Israeli mail for Nigeria, found in an American commercial aircraft which force-landed recently at Tripoli Airport, Libya, was confiscated by the Libyan authorities.

HOME GARDEN

Plant Perennials Now

One of the pleasures for the gardener is the cutting of bloom for decoration of the home, and this is the time of year to add to the planting of perennials which will furnish cut flowers year after year.

In spring, as the end of the tulip season approaches, the first of the perennials comes into bloom, the familiar yellow dromicium with daisy-like heads on long stalks.

Overlapping in timing are the painted daisies, or pyrethras. These are in shades of pink into red, and in single and double form.

Next are the peonies and German, or bearded, irises. Both are lovely for home decoration if cut in early morning just as the buds begin to break. Stood in deep water for a few hours before being finally arranged, they will last three to four days in a 70 degree F temperature if fresh air is circulating in the house.

Coral-bells (heuchera) is seldom used as a cut flower, but this year I found that it lasts for a week or more, making a delightfully airy bouquet. Combined with the huge purple-blue varieties of iris, the effect was startlingly lovely.

Perennial border pinks are always welcome for their perfume as well as their colors of pink and crimson.

The yellow of coreopsis, and the two-color effect of gailardia are useful in summer, and dramatic effects are easily created if three stems of red-hot-poker (Kniphofia, or tri-toma) are used with either of these two as fill-ins.

Delphiniums are not long-lasting cut flowers, but well during summer.

worth using if a wall decoration of considerable size is needed in a large room for a period of a few hours only. The hea y, hollow stems need special treatment if the florets are to remain on the spike. Filling the stem with water, and plugging the end with absorbent cotton helps.

By late summer, there comes into bloom a perennial which could be more widely used for both home and garden decoration, Artemisia lactiflora, the milk-white artemisia. It has strongly-branched spikes of tiny fragrant creamy flowers, and aromatic foliage. In the garden, a plant will look lovely for two months, as a cut flower it will last a week, reason enough for including it as a desirable plant.

All these perennials can be planted in the fall, and require good soil, full or nearly full sun; and, with the exception of the iris, regular watering

The Way of the Worry-Free

The eyes of children brighten at the prospect of a trip by train.

For trains have charm—a strange mixture of majesty and friendliness and magnetism.

To a child, there's a wonderful freedom in a train—to move about, watch the enchanting scenery, discover the wonders of the water cooler, sample the fabulous wares of the candy man.

Ask the mother who rides with Canadian National Railways—why does she? Many will be her reasons —privacy, roominess, comfort, assurance. She will tell you that she leaves anxiety behind, that for her it is the way of the worry-free.

Even Dad gets a holiday—from long hours behind the wheel, the battle of the crowded road, the fatigue, the tension.

For each in his own way it is this feeling of freedom and assurance that is making so many of today's motorists say: "When it's over 100 miles, I take the train."

NEW LIFE FOR FABLED HALL

NEW YORK (AP)—Carnegie Hall, once doomed to the wrecker's hammer, has been born anew.

Six months ago the "Old Lady of 57th Street" was in dowdy shape — her facade black with decades of smoke and her interior tired and run down.

Working crews were scheduled to destroy her. Then, in a last-minute intervention by a group of citizens headed by violinist Isaac Stern, the hall was saved.

State legislative action permitted the city to buy the hall for $5,000,000. A vast renovation began. New paint, carpeting, stage curtains, chandeliers and seats were added.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner cut a blue and gold ribbon across the centre doorway Monday night to open the new Carnegie Hall to the public.

King Arthur Tales Basis of New Play

TORONTO (CP)—New York press agent Marty Swartz says the opening of Camelot at the new $12,000,000 O'Keefe Centre Saturday night will be "one of the biggest theatrical events of the decade anywhere."

The play, about King Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table was inspired by T. H. White's book, The Once and Future King.

"Actually it started from a review of the book in the New York Times," Mr. Swartz explained. Director Moss Hart the Broadway team of Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe became interested in the book and "that's how the play began," Mr. Swartz said.

That was two years ago. Saturday night Lerner, Loewe and Hart of My Fair Lady fame will watch the My Fair Lady star, Julie Andrews, play the lead role, Guenevere; Richard Burton, born in South Wales 35 years ago, as King Arthur, and Robert Goulet, 27, who grew up in Edmonton, as Sir Lancelot.

"This will launch Goulet the way every actor dreams of being launched," Mr. Swartz says. The United States-born actor moved to Western Canada as a child. He has been seen extensively on Canadian television in both singing and non-singing roles.

Bird Film To Open Nature Series

The first of five nature lectures sponsored by Victoria Natural History Society will be given Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in Oak Bay Junior High School auditorium.

Allan D. Cruickshank, National Audubon Society speaker, will give an illustrated address on "River of the Crying Bird." A noted naturalist, Mr. Cruickshank has travelled the length of the Wakulla River in Florida photographing in color motion pictures the wildlife found there.

Season tickets for the five-lecture series cost $3 for adults and $1 for students. Single tickets are also obtainable.

TV Appeal To Khrushchev On Powers

NEW YORK (AP)—The father-of-U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers, who failed in attempts to see Soviet Premier Khrushchev on behalf of his son, appealed to the Kremlin leader via television today.

Oliver Powers, his voice faltering with emotion, appealed to Khrushchev as "one father to another" to release his son or to reduce his sentence.

Powers is serving a 10-year sentence in Moscow on his conviction of espionage charges. Powers' reconnaissance plane was downed in Soviet territory last May 1.

The elder Powers made his appeal on the Today show on NBC-TV.

1,124 Dead in Paris By Algerian Revolt

PARIS (AP)—Police prefect Maurice Papon announced today that 1,124 persons have been killed, and 1,354 wounded in Paris and its suburbs as a result of the Algerian rebellion since the revolt started nearly six years ago. Papon said the victims included 1,068 Moslems killed and 1,212 wounded.

How to modernize your communications to fit your business picture

Good business is a picture of many things. It is a steadily rising sales curve. An attractive, well-designed office. A capable staff. It is good communications.

A study of inter-office communications often shows where efficiency bogs down. Orders held up when someone can't be found. Important calls missed when you're away from your desk. Reefs of memos instead of talking to another department. A Loudspeaker Inter-communication System may be the answer. This gadget is a whiz at finding people! You just press a button on your desk set to speak to other offices.

The intercom is a compact unit. Its award-winning design is colourful, up-to-date. Quite in keeping with modern furniture and modern art. It's just good business to put this smart time-saver on your payroll. And you'll be surprised how little it takes from the kitty to rent it!

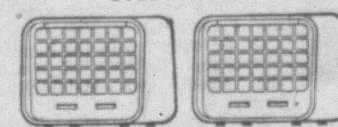

The intercom is one of many B.C. Telephone Company business facilities. Others are the telephone, Teletype and key phone. They're all rented. No digging down deep for upkeep or depreciation. Maintenance is our job.

Why not let our representative study your present communications system? He'll assess your needs, recommend the most efficient and economical equipment for your business. He'll be seeing you soon... sooner if you make an appointment through our new Marketing and Sales Department now.

Want to know more about our Intercom System? Have your secretary phone us. In Vancouver it's MU 3-5511. Outside Vancouver, ask your operator for Zenith 7000. (No charge for the call.) We'll send a Loudspeaker Inter-communication System brochure posthaste.

SIDELINE SLANTS

BY

Doug Peden

You may find some people who are critics of the way Herb Capozzi handles some of his chores as general manager of the B.C. Lions, but you'll probably have to do some solid sleuthing to find anybody ready to belittle his talents as a super salesman of football.

At least it's a cliché that members of the Victoria Gyro Club are convinced today that the Kelowna-born Capozzi is a peerless purveyor of pignis good will.

The man who is running the front office of Canada's youngest and richest gridiron club stopped by in Victoria long enough Monday to speak at the Gyros' weekly luncheon meeting and to search Victoria shops for some choice cheeses.

Just how the Lions' GM made out in his quest for Stilton, Gouda or Gruyere is a bit of a mystery, but any good Gyro knows that his luncheon appearance was a smash hit. For something like 40 minutes, Capozzi kept his audience in stitches as he expanded his topic—The Duties of a Football General Manager—in his own fashion.

Herb poked fun at himself, his job and the Lions. He used straight fiction and semi-fictional anecdotes to illustrate the problems he encounters, but he dropped in enough facts and figures to leave no doubt that he has more headaches than laughs when he's on the job.

Among the facts was the reminder that football in Vancouver is now a million-dollar business and that the Lions use up something like $35,000 a season on travelling expenses, spend $3,000 on pants for players, $1,600 for footballs, pay $180,000 in amusement tax and $120,000 for rental of Empire Stadium, and go through $6,000 of adhesive tape to keep aching and ailing gridiron heroes in action, which adds up to 20 miles of tape.

Gals Make Most Enthusiastic Fans

"Success of the Lions," said Capozzi, "is made possible by the tremendous enthusiasm of B.C. fans for football. And," he added, "women are the most enthusiastic."

"We run a football school for the fans. We charge them four dollars just to learn how to watch."

Even the wondrous advance sale that gets rid of 20,000 season tickets and drops $500,000 in the Lions' coffers before the season starts has its problems. "Can you imagine," asked Capozzi, "trying to fit all those people into choice seats?"

Football has to be the big attraction, but you can give Capozzi and his staff a big assist for the fact that the Lions are still setting attendance records, although they have yet to have a winning season.

Herb, who was an honors student and picked up a pair of BA degrees at UBC and played pro football as a tackle at Calgary and Montreal before moving to a swivel chair in the Lions' office, is always on the job. He manages to keep football in front of the public winter and summer.

Herb has taken some of the best promotional ideas from older clubs and tossed in a few novel twists of his own, including a football night school course and the appointment of a co-ordinator for minor football.

The school was an overwhelming success last season. Coach Robinson, his assistants and several players outlined fundamentals, rules and equipment. It is being repeated this winter.

Minor Football Blanketed by Lebs

Appointment of a co-ordinator resulted last July in the largest minor football coaching clinic ever held in Canada. It also supplies additional groundwork for a scouting system covering all minor grid clubs in the province.

Lions, who shell out substantial subsidies to help minor football in B.C., are hoping the program will eventually produce an increase in home-grown recruits for the club.

"We often talk of what we call the 'golden age of sports in Victoria,' when your city produced a succession of great athletes and championship teams," Herb said. "Many of the athletes would have made outstanding football players."

"We are hoping for increased football interest in Victoria and to eventually have Victoria players with the Lions."

There is no doubt that Herb Capozzi is doing an amazing job of selling pro football in Vancouver. Although the fans have been disappointed almost every season, he still has them flocking to Empire Stadium.

"I guess I'm like a padre," he quipped at the Gyros, "I sell hope."

Leos Drop Protest

British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union have decided to withdraw their protest of Saturday's 28-14 loss to the Calgary Stampeders.

Lions played the game under protest after disagreeing with a roughing-the-kicker penalty called against them in the first quarter.

LEONARD SETS COURSE MARK AT MELBOURNE

MELBOURNE (CP)—Stan Leonard of Vancouver established a course record by shooting a 66 today over the Bell Park golf course at nearby Geelong in the sixth round in the Wills tournament.

Leonard is in third place in the four-man tournament. He has a 428 total for 108 holes. The marathon tournament has another three rounds of 18 holes to go. It is being played over different courses in three Australian states.

Australia's Peter Thomson retained the tournament lead by shooting a 71 for a 418 total, six strokes ahead of second-place Gary Player of South Africa, who shot a 70 for 424. After Leonard at 428 comes Mike Souchak of the United States at 435.

Riders Turn on Cowboys; Bombers Suffer First Loss

(From Times News Services)

The helping hand was wholly unexpected, but B.C. Lions today are ready to extend a vote of thanks to Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Coach Ken Carpenter's Riders, winless in eight starts, tossed a little fuel onto the Western Interprovincial Football Union's playoff fire Monday night by frying Calgary Stampeders 45-35.

But the surprise from Regina wasn't the only upset.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers took their first loss in 11 starts when Eskimos crossed the odds-makers and came up with a 15-2 conquest of the leaders.

KEY GAME

From a standpoint of importance, the Rider-Calgary game was "it." The game in Winnipeg meant little since Bombers are all but assured of first place while Eskimos appear a lead-pipe cinch to grab rung No. 2.

Saskatchewan's victory kept B.C. in third, a point ahead of Calgary in the race for the final playoff spot.

Both teams have five games to play. Riders' faint hopes of crashing the playoffs also went up with their victory before 9,512 surprised partisans.

Brilliant passing by quarterback Bob Placek, back in action after a five-game absence, and the fine receiving of half-back Bob Renn were major factors in Riders' win.

AERIAL ATTACK

Placek tossed three touchdown passes to Renn and another to Jack Hill, then ran 15 yards for a touchdown himself, the last one of the game.

Riders' other major came on a 60-yard run by end Jack Gotta after he scooped up a wild pitchout by Calgary quarterback Joe Kapp.

Reg Whitehouse converted five of the touchdowns and kicked a 31-yard field goal. The other Saskatchewan point came on a 50-yard single kicked by full-back Ferdie Burkett.

OFFENSE STARS

The offensive squads were in command almost throughout, with only nine punts in the game—six by Saskatchewan. While quarterback Jackie Parker kicked a field goal and tossed touchdown passes to halfbacks Cowboy Woodruff and Joe-Bob Smith, it was the stout Edmonton defensive unit which stole the show at Winnipeg.

Backed up by the hard hitting of linemen Don Stephenson, Ed Gray, Mike Volcan and Roger Nelson and two key interceptions by Bill Smith, Eskimos held the league leaders to two singles by fullback Charlie Shepard.

Bombers came through with only one good march and that was in the third quarter when they rolled from their own 22 for six successive first downs to the Edmonton 10-yard line. But Bill Smith snuffed out the threat with a leaping interception in the end zone by a pass by Bomber quarterback Kenny Ploen.

Smith also set up the second Edmonton touchdown with an interception of a desperation pass by Ploen deep in Bomber territory early in the fourth quarter. Smith stole the pass at the Winnipeg 25 and raced to the five before halted.

Edmonton held a wide edge statistically, piling up 190 yards rushing and 146 passing for 33 first downs. Parker was good on 12 of 19 throws.

counted the others. For the Canucks, it was John Slaver and Murray Wilkie.

Wings outshot Vancouver, 39-27 as the teams shared six penalties.

Elsewhere on the Western front, Winnipeg Warriors received good news Monday when winger Lorne Davis announced he will join the WHL club Wednesday.

Davis, who has 10 years experience in the National and American Leagues, was assigned to Winnipeg by Boston Bruins but had said he was retiring to devote full time to his construction firm position in Regina.

He played last year with Providence Reds.

TWO FOR VAL

Leading the Red Wings scoring was Val Fonteyne with two goals, while Howie Glover, Murray Oliver, and Johnson, and John McKenzie.

First Meeting For District's Grid Rivals

Victoria Vampires and Oak Bay Police, the district's entries in the five-team Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League, lock horns for the first time Sunday.

The game at Carnarvon Park will get under way at 2 p.m.

Vampires dropped a tough, 20-14 decision to Nanaimo Redmen at the weekend after the Victoria team had two touchdowns called back in the fourth quarter for rules infractions.

Fred Holmes scored two Vamp majors, Dan Hess converted one and Victoria picked up its other point on a single by Brian Rigby.

Shudda Steps Out On Longshot Limb

Shudda Haddim is in an unusual position. After five days of racing at Sandown Park, he's still basking with confidence.

Mr. Haddim, the self-styled seer of the Sidney strip, got away to a bad start last season. But this time his new and inimitable system has the one-day better showing a tidy little profit.

The emphasis is more on "little" than "tidy," but Shudda says "a profit is a profit."

Shudda, who started with a stake of $25, was packing $27.90 when he headed for the track Saturday and was all set to wager a two-buck bet on Honeywell in the third. His finances remained unchanged when Honeywell was scratched.

Slightly carried away by the feeling of having extra change to jingle in his pocket, Shudda's going to step out on a limb with a $2 wager on Pegs Lady Jess to win Wednesday's sixth race.

GOOD NEWS FOR BUCS

Happy is the news for Pittsburgh baseball fans as Dr. Joseph Finegold (right), the team physician, takes another look at Dick Groat's left wrist, broken on Sept. 6 by a pitched ball. Finegold says the Pirates' shortstop and captain will be able to play in the World Series against New York Yankees. The series starts next Wednesday.

All Bucs Can Take Bows For Steady Flag March

By The Associated Press

No matter how you analyze it, the Pittsburgh success story of 1960 must be interpreted as a solid team victory. No one man can take all the bows. Not even Dick Groat, shortstop and leading candidate for player of the year. Not even Vern Law, the Bucs' 20-game winner, or Elroy Face, the superb little relief artist, or Don Hoak, the team's straw boss, or Roberto Clemente, the big RBI man.

Not even Danny Murtaugh, the unobtrusive manager whose guidance and undemonstrative masterminding has been the steady influence. Not even Joe Brown, the general manager, whose shrewd trades and behind-the-scenes activities have been highly instrumental in the team's success.

If ever a team jelled as a unit, with every able-bodied man contributing his bit, this was it. It's a team with no dynamic star of the calibre of Willie Mays or Stan Musial, but a squad of hungry players who complement and get along well with each other.

Groat is the inspirational leader, Hoak's the take-charge guy, Bill Mazeroski is the defensive stalwart, Clemente is the guy who bats in runs, Bob Skinner and Dick Stuart are the long ball hitters and Bill Virdon, Smokey Burgess and Hal Smith are the steady performers.

PITCHING HELPS

Another big factor has been the Pirates' strong but unspectacular pitching. Law, enjoying by far his best season, and Bob Friend, the veteran, have been the mainstays, but fireman Face and southpaw Harvey Haddix and "Vinegar Bend" Mizell have made important contributions.

As a team, the Pirates lead in all batting departments except home runs, attesting to their balance and bench strength. This was brought into focus when Groat suffered a broken left wrist Sept. 6 and was sidelined. Dick Schofield stepped into the shortstop breach and did a thoroughly workmanlike job both at bat and at short.

Because of the strong bench, Murtaugh has been able to platoon Rocky Nelson with Stuart at first base, and Gino Cimoli with Virdon in centre without any loss of power or defensive strength.

Another important factor has been the ability of the front line personnel to stay reasonably healthy. Prior to Groat's injury, the only damaging loss the club suffered was an injury to Clemente that incapacitated the right fielder for five days.

WOULDN'T WILT

In the final analysis, it was the Pirates' determination, their supreme confidence in themselves, their refusal to wilt under pressure that drove them to Pittsburgh's first pennant in 33 years.

The Pirates made themselves the team to beat virtually from the first day of the season. They occupied the top rung exclusively with only two or three interruptions, from mid-May.

Three challengers made determined runs at them during the season but the Pirates scuttled them all.

Pittsburgh's steady journey into the World Series was not marred by any substantial losing streak.

Four-in-a-row were the most the Pirates ever lost and that happened only twice. At no time were they more than two games behind the leaders.

They played steady, if not sensational, ball, depending on no exceptionally long winning streak. They did win nine straight in April, but thereafter they won more than four in a row only three times, once five, once six and once seven.

'Glad to Be Back,' Fergie New Coach

ARNIE FERGUSON
... Victoria coach

Arnie Ferguson, rated one of the greatest all-around lacrosse players of all time, is coming back to the scene of some of his earliest successes.

"It's like starting all over again," said Ferguson, who coached and played with the original Shamrocks and led them to their first Mann Cup triumph.

Ferguson was named coach of Victoria's team at a meeting of the Inter-City Lacrosse League team Monday night.

HE'S HAPPY

Obviously quite pleased at returning to the game, Ferguson said he will concentrate on building a contender with home-grown talent.

"We're going to have to rely on local boys and, as far as I'm concerned, the more Victoria boys... the better," Ferguson, who retired after the Irish won the Mann Cup in 1955, succeeds Norm Baker.

Whitey Severson, the ICLL's all-time scoring leader, was named team manager and Dave Gray was elected president at Monday's meeting. Gray succeeds Joe Mitchell and Severson takes over from Ralph Baker.

George McWilliam was named vice-president and Ken Macdonald returns as secretary.

Four new directors — Tom Baird, Tom Dore, Buss Morgan and Bert Richman — were named to the 10-man board along with holdovers Austin Goward, Hec McNeill, Frank Pomeroy, Walter Spersholt, Wil Wilson and Mitchell.

TEE TOPICS

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Col. Russell Ker set some kind of record at Oak Bay when he spanned a total of five holes in two shots on Sunday.

Playing up the 18th hole, Col. Ker placed his second shot on the 13th fairway.

You figure it out.

But I have witnesses of unimpeachable authority!

The Gorge Vale club championship rests with Johnny Merriman today, and it's no secret that sweet-swinging John is slightly disappointed Bob Woods decided not to finish out their 36-hole final Sunday.

Woods, not feeling his best, conceded the match on the 11th green.

Merriman, still one of the best weekend-only golfers around, was three up after nine and went four up when he took the 10th with a birdie. He had had nine straight pars before that, so John finished one under when the abbreviated final ended.

The "B" title went to Mike Warawa (the Mundare Marauder) after his 5-and-4 triumph over Wally Woods. Warawa was three down after 18 and then warmed up with the weather.

John Carlow defeated Earl Dye 3 and 2 in the consolation final and other flight winners were Jim Cairnie, Bill Carlow, B. Browning, Harold Yardley, Harold Leachman, Gord Cameron, Ernie Oliver, Terry Varcoe, R. Oakman, E. MacMillan and Norm Pike.

Bob Morrison and Gord Pellow, a pair of veterans and both former champions, battle next Sunday over 36 holes for the Uplands club crown.

Morrison defeated medalist Claude Heggie, 4 and 3, while Pellow downed Dave Humphries, 2 and 1, in Sunday's semifinals.

Bert Saxon peeled off a bit of old thunder at Colwood Sunday in the opening round of that club's championship tournament.

Saxon surprised former champion Bill McColl, 2 up, while the medalist and defending champion both breezed to 2 and 1 victories.

Medal-winning Laurie Kerr downed Joe Evans while Dr. Roger Ross, the defending champ, beat Jerry Clancy.

Filling out the quarterfinals were Don Ross, George Andrews, Bill Garner, Vic Painter and secretary Bill Passmore.

That hole-in-one idea has caught on with Gerry Palmer. He scored his second ace in 10 weeks Monday playing the Cedar Hill course with Arland Holm, Albert Beardshaw and Dick Munn.

Palmer sank his tee shot on the 14th. He got his first July 9 on the sixth hole.

SHORT CHIPS: Start of the annual button battles, already twice postponed, will "definitely" begin Sunday at Uplands... The list of challengers is too long to afford another postponement... Oak Bay members will scramble for the Rainbow Cup on Saturday... Bunny Thompson Memorial Trophy, the popular 18-hole medal event open to all city golfers, goes Oct. 11.

Richardson Triumphs In Second Cycle Test

Tom Richardson left little doubt in anyone's mind that he rates as the top scramble driver in the Victoria Motorcycle Club.

Richardson, taking over on the fourth lap, scored an easy victory at the Colwood track Sunday in the second of a three-set series to determine the 1960 club championship.

Joe Brown, the only rider not lapped by Richardson in the 20-lap main event, finished second in Sunday's test, while Dave Moore, John Davis and Parker Okano rounded out the first five.

The third race will be held October 23.

Other Sunday results follow:
First Heat—1. Joe Brown; 2. Vern Amor; 3. Dave Moore.
Second Heat—1. Bill Smith; 2. Brian Orr; 3. Parker Okano.
Third Heat—1. Tom Richardson; 2. Jack Hunsdick; 3. Mike Venables.
"C" Main—1. John Davis; 2. John Hall; 3. Ed Parratt.

MARCEL PELLETIER
... at old stand

Rumor Erased; Marcel Signs

Cougar coach George Agar will be packing on less worry when he heads for Vernon Wednesday to set up training camp for Victoria's Western Hockey League Club.

Agar announced this morning that goalie Marcel Pelletier had agreed to terms and would report to Vernon on schedule.

Signing of the veteran net-minder ended rumors that colorful Marcel would end his playing career at 32 and remain at his Milwaukee home. It also lifted a load off Agar's shoulders because Pelletier has a habit of holding out for better salary terms and it was thought he might balk at returning to the Cougars.

Marcel, who has spent seven of his 10 professional seasons in the WHL, was in the running for league goaltending honors until late in the campaign last winter. He finished in second place with a goals-against average of 2.71 while Vancouver's Hank Bassen was racking up a starchy 2.48 mark with the Canucks.

Pelletier set the WHL record of eight shutouts in one season with the Cougars in the 1955-56 season and equalled the mark with Vancouver two years later.

He also has the distinction of helping his club into the playoffs in all his WHL seasons, and Agar is hoping that his return is a good luck omen for the Cats.

Socreds Retain 3 Seats on Absentee Votes

The Social Credit government has held its strength in the B.C. legislature with three narrow victories eked out in final counting of ballots cast in the general election.

The Socreds kept Yale by 25 votes. They retained Comox by 38 votes. They held Nanaimo by 70 votes. Standing in the 52-seat legislature remains Social Credit 32, CCF 16, Liberal 4.

In a fourth borderline seat, northerly Atlin, CCFer Frank Calder increased his lead when absentee ballots were tallied.

Trailing Socred Dan Campbell by 116 after the general election, Fred Wood, CCF, picked up a majority of absentee ballots to put him within 38.

In Nanaimo, where Recreation Minister Earle Westwood held his seat by a reduced margin of 70 over CCFer Colin Cameron.

The Nanaimo victory leaves Premier Bennett's way clear for a cabinet reorganization. He was awaiting the results of Monday's count before considering successors for Labor Minister Wicks and Agriculture Minister Steacy, defeated Sept. 12.

In Atlin, Calder picked up 444 absentee votes; Socred William Asselstine got 267.

One poll, at Alyansh, is being challenged because of an alleged fault in numbering of the ballots.

All 72 votes there were cast for Calder. But loss of these still wouldn't affect his victory.

Premier Bennett was reported elated at the results. CCF leader Robert Strachan had high hopes of winning at least one of the three closest seats.

Said victor Westwood: "I was particularly pleased because there is so much to be done in my particular field in B.C."

Here are the final tallies in the close ridings. Other ridings changed slightly, but there was no chance of an upset.

Comox—Campbell, 6,102; Wood, 6,064; Baikie, Liberal, 2,747; Gray, Conservative, 665; Higgin, Communist, 207.

Nanaimo—Westwood, 4,621; Cameron, 4,551; Heath, Liberal, 1,036; Strongitharm, Conservative, 605; Mortinson, Communist, 70.

Yale—Corbett, 1,126; McDougall, 1,101; Collett, Liberal, 964; Lauder, Conservative, 388.

CITY BRIEFS

Flower 'Business' Overtaxed

City parks administrator W. H. Warren Monday recommended that the city stop providing flower boxes and baskets to downtown merchants.

Parks Committee recommended that city council approve the proposal.

Mr. Warren said the civic nursery has become overcrowded and rather than expand facilities at present, the sideline project of supplying the flower containers at cost to about 100 merchants should be dropped.

He said several commercial nurseries have indicated they could make up the flower boxes and baskets for merchants.

The city-owned flower baskets hung from cluster light standards would not be affected by the move.

Parks committee decided to investigate further the possibility of letting all maintenance work at Ross Bay Cemetery out to contract, although Mr. Warren said city crews would have greater flexibility in doing the work than a commercial company.

A proposal by the Diamond C Ranch to operate a horse rental service in Thetis Lake Park was rejected.

Committee members indicated horses might be permitted in the seldom-visited northeast corner of the park but they would be banned from the central lake area.

Friday Deadline For Inclusion On Voters' List

About 400 persons on last year's civic voters' list have only until Friday to make the 1960 list, City Clerk Frank Hunter warned Monday.

Some 1,900 forms have been sent out to tenant and resident electors who are required to confirm their addresses before going on the list but only 1,500 have, he said.

Only 157 newcomers in the two categories have had their names added to the list since it opened in August so the net drop in the total so far is about 250.

Friday at 5 p.m. is the deadline for inclusion in civic voters' lists throughout B.C.

'Disband All Armies' K Tells Capitalists

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev, dining off gold plates with a group of capitalists, proposed that if the world powers disarm and disband their armies he would accept any arms control "anyone proposes."

The Kremlin boss said he favors strict international control of disarmament, but he added: "We are demanding disarmament precisely under control, and not control over armaments."

Khrushchev made his remarks at a dazzling luncheon given Monday by Cyrus Eaton, Cleveland financier and industrialist, born in Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

The guests, many of whom wished to remain anonymous, ate consommé with egg custard drops, filet of beef with truffle sauce and frozen fresh strawberries flavored with rum. White and red wines were served.

CONTROL "FRUITLESS"

"Indeed," the boss of world communism told the luncheon, "control over armaments does not lessen the danger of a sudden outbreak of war. Controls over armaments is fruitless in the economic sense of the word, as well, since it does not alleviate the burden of the arms race which, in its entirety, lies on the shoulders of the nations."

"I say this," he said, "let us agree on the necessity to reach agreement on disarmament, and after that you are welcome to put forward your own proposals for control, and I am sure that will be very easy to find common language."

And if agreement on disarmament was achieved "I then am ready to accept any measure of control anyone proposes," he said.

Eaton, 76, winner of the Lenin Peace Prize given by Russia, characterized Khrushchev as "the most distinguished representative of the world of socialist economy."

He said he had met "no better informed man" in his lifetime.

Only one Western newspaperman was permitted to cover the luncheon in its entirety as a pool representative. Communist-bloc reporters were admitted, however.

Several reporters climbed fire stairways to gain access to the ballroom. After the food was eaten, several more Western reporters were allowed inside.

WORK WITH CANADA?

Khrushchev said he understood some Canadian businessmen were interested in knowing whether Russia and Canada might somehow co-ordinate their activities in the production and sale of similar products such as iron ore. He said that this was possible, since the Soviet Union already was co-operating with the international tin agency.

Senator Donald Cameron of Banff, Alta., a member of the Liberal party, welcomed Khrushchev and appealed for better understanding and less distortion in news media.

"We have reached the point in world society where we can no longer afford to squander over $100,000,000,000 a year in a fantastic armaments race," he said.

False Passport Admitted

VANCOUVER — A 25-year-old Chinese from Hong Kong admitted in British Columbia Supreme Court Monday that he lied and used a false passport to get into Canada.

Thomas Chow gave evidence at the trial of three Vancouver men charged in connection with illegally obtaining Canadian passports.

George Edward Gordon, 56-year-old lawyer, is accused of nine counts under the Immigration Act while Sun Tong, 71-year-old barber, and Hein Dien Cheng are charged with six offences.

The charges centre around passports obtained for Chow and his sister, Josephine. Chow turned himself over to RCMP after his arrival in Canada.

The Crown alleged Monday that Chow's father, now living in California, was to pay a total of $9,000 for two passports to get his son and daughter into Canada from Hong Kong.

The indictments against the three men involves charges that false statements and false documents were used to get the passports.

GOWN LIKE PAPER

VANCOUVER — A dressing gown of viscose rayon worn by Mr. Justice Sidney Smith of B.C. Appeal Court when he burned to death 10 days ago was as inflammable as a sheet of newsprint, Coroner Glen McDonald said Monday. A coroner's inquiry ruled the death accidental, caused when a sleeve of the dressing gown touched an electric burner and caught fire.

HOSPITAL OVERFLOWS

KAMLOOPS — Five scheduled operations for children have been cancelled because the pediatric ward at Royal Inland Hospital is filled to capacity, a hospital official said Monday.

The entire hospital is "completely filled up," he said, and extra beds were installed Saturday night in wards and waiting rooms. Forty-six persons were admitted during the weekend, 27 of them emergencies.

The hospital has been suffering from periodic overcrowding for many months.

He Can Still Bill and Coo Through Muzzle

VANCOUVER (CP)—Love or hot, Ferdinand will have to keep his trap shut. Curator Dr. Murray Newman said Monday he now believes Ferdinand was just a young bull alligator feeling his oats. Ferdinand's love affair came to light when Dr. Newman spotted Isabella, the only female in the pond, slither up and put her front leg on Ferdinand's shoulder. "They were making small alligator noises. I don't understand the language but I think they like each other a lot." But he's not taking off the muzzle because Ferdinand might be jealous of the other, unmuzzled males. "He can still bill and coo through his muzzle."

Castro Impresses Neutrals, Africans

4-Hour Harangue Attacks U.S.; Claims 'Oppression'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Fidel Castro's speech in the UN General Assembly Monday seemed to make some impact on the newly admitted African nations and to a lesser extent on the known neutrals.

There were these observable facts: It was the longest speech in the history of the General Assembly. Yet the great hall was about three-quarters filled when Castro finished talking after 4½ hours.

Castro held his audience, and particularly the African and Latin American delegations.

The applause that frequently interrupted him was led by the Communists and came mainly from them. But they were not the only ones who were clapping for Castro.

Maurice Dejean, foreign minister of the Central African Republic, said later: "I have no comment on the political side of his speech. But on the economic side, we have many of the same problems as Cuba. Some of these points contained a great deal of truth."

That was fairly typical of the comments of delegates from uncommitted nations. A number said that "the speech had some points."

Castro started with history, the Cuban revolt against Spain, the first American "oppression," and then on through a long indictment of American actions against him—the airplane flights from Florida, the mysterious ship explosion, a state department note that apparently hurt his pride, and some alleged misrepresentation by the American press.

Pictures Cuba as Badly Treated

He pictured himself as a man badly treated, and his country as ground into the dust.

Twice, Assembly President Frederick Boland of Ireland interrupted him to remind him of the diplomatic amenities.

Once was when he called the Democratic presidential candidate, Senator John Kennedy, an illiterate and ignorant millionaire. Vice-President Nixon, he said, was no better. "As far as we are concerned, both of them lack political brains."

Castro had prefaced his remarks by saying he would "be brief."

But he went on and on, hitting hard at the United States, later ranging around the globe with his comments.

These were some of his main points:

1. "The trouble in my country was not only the land that was in the hands of the American monopolies. The main monopolies were in the hands of those monopolies."

2. "There were 40 victims caused by an airplane that was peacefully flying over our territory. The U.S. authorities denied the fact that these planes came from U.S. territory... These pirate planes continued to fly over our territory dropping incendiary bombs. Millions upon millions of pesos were lost in the burning fields of sugar cane."

BASE THREATENED

3. "We declare that when that base, the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo, becomes a threat to the security and tranquility of our people... then the revolutionary government of Cuba is seriously considering requesting, within the framework of international law, that the naval and military forces of the U.S. be withdrawn."

4. "We would like to support the proposal to rid African territory of military bases, and therefore of nuclear weapons bases."

RED CHINA BACKED

5. "China represents one-fourth of the people of the world. Which government truly represents that people, which is the greatest people in the world? None other than the government of the Communist Peoples Republic of China. We support a discussion of the seating in the UN of the true representatives of the Chinese people."

6. "The U.S. cannot agree with the people of Algeria because the U.S. is an ally of France. It cannot agree with the Congolese people because the U.S. is an ally of Belgium. It cannot be with the Spanish people because it is an ally of Franco. It cannot be in favor of the Puerto Rican people whose nationality it has for 50 years been destroying."

7. "We condemn the way in which the intervention of the UN was carried out in the Congo. These forces did not go there to act against the forces that had intervened and interfered."

HER WORD LAW

Emily Post, 'Etiquette' Ruler, Dead

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Emily Post, 87, internationally famous authority on the social graces, died Monday at her east side home here.

Mrs. Post, author of Etiquette: The Blue Book of Social Usage, utilized not only books but also newspapers and radio to advise what is socially proper and improper.

Her first book on social usage, titled simply Etiquette, was published in 1922. Since then, Mrs. Post has been considered one of the leading authorities on good manners. Her basic rule of etiquette was: make the other person comfortable.

Born in Baltimore, Md., Mrs. Post was educated by governesses and at private schools in Baltimore and New York, where her family moved when she was 10.

89 PRINTINGS

She married Edwin Main Post in 1892.

Mrs. Post wrote many magazine articles and stories. Her original Etiquette met immediate success and has continued to sell steadily through its 10th revision and 89th printing. Her daily column is syndicated in more than 200 newspapers.

In 1946 she founded the Emily Post Institute to put out publications on correct social usage.

Mute Slave Girl Inherits Fortune

LONDON (Reuters)—A deaf-and-dumb girl sold in China as a slave was left nearly £16,000 ($43,000) in a will published Monday.

In 1892, missionary Evangeline French went to China. Her sister Francesca joined her 15 years later.

Thirty years ago, in a northwest border town, they saw a deaf-and-dumb child given away to a woman. The woman beat the child and made her a beggar. Neighbors set their dogs on the child. The dogs bit her legs because she could not hear them coming.

The two sisters bought the child for 30 shillings and brought her up. When they finished their missionary work in China in 1931, they brought her to England and gave her the name Eileen Guy. But they had always called her "Topsy."

The two sisters died last August and left their estate to Topsy, now 42.

AIR PLAYIN'—They'll never get it off the ground but the kids don't care. They're soaring high in imagination inside a skeletal airplane that is an unusual playground piece at the Rhein-Main Air Base in Frankfurt, West Germany. The plane has seats, "controls" and a slide at the tail.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Let's have a little low-down on the higher-ups.

Some of these paragraphs may convince you that you should be glad you're not a celebrity. The problems they have!

Kim Novak wants to delay her marriage to Dick Quine until '61 because she was born under the sign of Aquarius (Feb. 12)—and '61 promises good for Aquarians. But director Quine's a Capricorn—and her astrologist warns her "it could be dangerous"—and she listens.

Even Tennessee Williams must have blushed at the brothel atmosphere of Brendan Behan's "The Hostage"—and one religious young-matron said, "I thought lightning would strike the theatre!" Behan, coffee-guzzling at Downey's, shrugged. "If you're not religious, you can't make fun of it." (The matron said she'd teach her kids one song, "Don't throw stones at your mother, throw rocks at your father instead.")

Ernest Hemingway's "Miss Mary"—here waiting for "Papa" to return from Spain—said they're not worried about Cuba and will go back to their finca. . . . A top broad-casting official told us (at the reopening of "The Columns" at the Savoy-Hilton) why live TV's almost vanished from N.Y.: "Featherbedding, poor technical facilities, and lack of co-operation from the city. Chicago or Miami will give you the town—here you can't get them to rope off 5th Ave. for a chase scene."

Anyway, Mr. K made N.Y. the safest city in the world from an A-bomb (a while at least). . . . Buckingham Livery which rents Rolls-Royces, says it rejected a request from Castro's crew for a whole fleet. . . . The B-way hippies were exclaiming, "How about that Castro getting himself an up-town pad and Khrushchev helping him make that Harlem scene! Coupla cool cats!"

Olympics swimmer Paul Halt of San Jose, Cal., was one athlete the Russians wanted to meet in Rome. As the Americans were presented, a long came Halt—pronounced "Ha-it." At the word "Ha-it," the Russians screamed "No, no, no, Hate—Love! Understanding, Friendship." It took time to show them that Halt didn't.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL
Joel McCrea's cowboy son David married a pretty Chicago school teacher. . . . Alfred Hitchcock said at a party at Luchow's for his new TV show that kids are very sadistic. One boy asked, "Did you use chicken blood in that scene?" He said, "No, chocolate sauce"—and the boy looked sad. . . .

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A local fellow says his wife has gone on a diet by cutting out three meals a week—the ones they used to eat at home.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Regardless of what the ads say, the most popular cigarette is the one you find on the other fellow's desk.

COMMONWEALTH PLAN AT WORK

Scholars Gather in London

LONDON (CP)—Seventeen Canadian students, along with 153 others from the Commonwealth, are assembling in London to take up scholarships under the new Commonwealth scholarships and fellowships plan.

Under the program, about 1,000 Commonwealth students, mainly post-graduates, will be exchanged among member countries for two years of study.

Which is the Biggest Bird?

The biggest bird in the world may stand eight feet tall and tip the scales at 300 pounds. Birds must give up flying when they weigh more than 30 pounds, so this whopping bird is not a flier. But my, how he can run. His giant strides may be 15 feet long and he covers the ground at 40 miles an hour. This biggest of all birds is, of course, the ostrich of the sandy plains of Africa.

No, Mr. Ostrich does not bury his head in the sand when threatened with danger. There are at least three reasons why this story is not true. One, he would suffocate with his head in the sand. Two, he would make a splendid target for a hungry lion. Three, the ostrich is a very powerful animal and does not have to hide from anybody. The emu of Australia and

Father Ostrich Digs Nest

When the right time comes, Mr. O. digs a shallow pit in the sand with his feet. Mrs. Ostrich sits down to lay about 15 creamy-colored eggs. Each egg weighs about three pounds. For six long weeks, mamma sits on the eggs by day and papa sits on them by night. At the end of this time there are rustlings, whisperings and finally faint chirrups in the nest. The youngsters are hatching out of their shells.

They are very sassy little birds, ready to look the world in the eye from the very first day. At first they do not have long silken plumage like their parents. Their down is arranged in stiff points and the babies of the biggest bird in the world look rather like porcupines.

Andy sends a Hammond's International World Globe to Linda Sue Herbin, age 12, of Tucson, Ariz., for her question:

Are the same stars overhead by day?

As the earth turns around on its axis, we face first one view of the starry heavens and then another. The widest turn made by our globe is at the equator, where it whizzes around at 1,000 miles an hour. The further we are from the equator the slower we turn. At the poles, the earth does not turn around at all.

The faster we turn, the faster the heavenly parade goes by. The stars above the equator seem to move fastest. They are in the sky for only 12 hours. The stars in the sky above the poles move slowest. The Big Dipper and a few others do not rise and set. They circle the heavens though we see them only after sunset. The North Star stays put day and night. Others show themselves first to our side of the world, then to the other.

Ban on Shrimp Trawlers Asked by Chemainus Body

CHEMAINUS—The Chemainus Chamber of Commerce will ask the federal fisheries department to ban shrimp trawlers from the waters of Stuart Channel for an indefinite period.

Member Bob Bennie, who made the proposal, said that sport fishing in the area had been dropping off alarmingly for the past few years and blamed trawlers "that are sweeping away all the feed."

Department of transport will be asked to erect a marker on Bird Reef in front of Chemainus beach. The reef is a hazard to boats as well as swimmers.

President James Webster reported the tourist committee was working on plans to erect a large "Chemainus" sign on Bare Point at the harbor entrance. The sign would be welcome identification for the hundreds of small craft plying local waters during the summer months, he said.

PORT ALBERNI — Many merchants are too ready to accept cheques not knowing whether they are good or bad, E. A. Dinsmore, city prosecutor, said in court Monday.

He said many merchants are over-anxious to sell their goods and accept cheques without question.

The prosecutor made his statement after conviction of John Edward Williams on a false pretences charge involving worthless cheques. He was sentenced to two months.

CHEMAINUS—Close to $1,200 was taken in at the annual Rotary outdoor auction despite a morning downpour which threatened to wash it out.

Money will go this year to redecorating a room at Chemainus Hospital, to be known as the Rotary Room.

Winners of the draws were: Ken Cook, movie camera and projector; Dr. G. Heydon, Indian sweater; the Misses G. and E. Work, twilight lamp.

LADYSMITH—Residents in the Diamond district just outside of Ladysmith are getting closer to having a water system of their own following a meeting with Thor Christenson, Ladysmith consulting engineer.

They voted unanimously to submit his report and estimates ranging from $55,138 to $67,462, to the water rights branch in Victoria. Chairman

Ambulance Demands On Increase

DUNCAN—Increasing number of highway and industrial accidents emphasizes the need for a new and bigger ambulance to serve the far-flung Cowichan district, annual meeting of the Kiwanis Ambulance Society was told.

Curtis Peck, who gave the drivers' report for the year ending Aug. 31, said highway accidents are up 20 per cent during the period while industrial accidents jumped 150 per cent.

Duncan ambulances, which serve the area from five miles north of Duncan to south of the Malahat—made a total of 187 calls during the past year, attending 28 highway and 15 industrial accidents.

Mr. Peck said an average of three persons were injured in each of the 28 highway accidents, requiring the attendance of both the one and two-bed ambulances. A new four-bed ambulance, he said, would not only provide better service, but would permit the other ambulance to stand by for local duty when an accident occurred outside Duncan.

Art Browne, representing the Kiwanis Club, revealed plans for a district-wide "blitz" on Oct. 6, to raise funds for the purchase of a new four-bed ambulance to replace the present one-bed machine.

Jack Sweeney was named chairman of the ambulance society and Ormonde Springfield was appointed secretary-treasurer. Directors are: John Dirom, D. R. Williams, Curtis Peck, M. Robertson and Lee Selzler.

Job Picture Good
NANAIMO — The National Employment Office here has 582 men and 225 women seeking work, compared with 531 men and 233 women a year ago.

Ray Lawrence, acting manager of the NES, termed the situation generally satisfactory.

PORT ALBERNI — Norman Harold Untch, 23, and Jack P. Eaton, 58, were reported in satisfactory condition in hospital here Monday night with injuries suffered in a car collision which took one life Saturday night.

Mr. Eaton's wife died Sunday from injuries she suffered in the crash.

Queen's Return Sorry Spectacle

By MONTE ROBERTS

The one-time queen of Esquimalt Harbor is back after a visit to Vancouver.

And she's a mere shell of her former self.

The queen, of course, is the light cruiser Ontario, for years the pride of the RCN Pacific Command.

But the days of conventional cruisers have long passed, and over a year ago the Ontario was offered for sale as scrap, on a where-is, as-is basis, with restrictions against export.

She was bid in by a Vancouver syndicate for about $317,000—less than one-third the cost of a major refit—and left under tow for the mainland, amid a flurry of nostalgia and many a wet eye.

But her death under the shipbreaker's hammer was to be delayed. The Vancouver syndicate found they were going to lose money on the job, and secured a permit to sell the ship for export, despite the initial stipulation.

So she was sold to a Japanese firm for a reported $350,000 or so.

Thus the forlorn and battered queen is back in Esquimalt Harbor, at Yarrow's Ltd., where she's being prepared for the long and ignominious tow to Japan.

And to add to the indignity, she'll tow stern first. Those who have served in the "Big O" will please avert their eyes as she passes by.

'RUN FOR PROFIT OF FEW'

Club Branded 'Sham'

The Sports Club at 654 Yates Street today was labelled a "sham" by Magistrate William Ostler in a judgment in city police court on a gambling house case.

The magistrate said the club was operated for the personal gain of a few men and not for its members.

He found William Plotnikoff guilty of keeping a common gaming house, and fined him $200.

Thirteen persons charged with being found in the gaming house, were fined $20 each.

They were: John Maija, Thomas Scouler, Robert Brotherton, Anthony Hayward, Clyde Woodburn, Boris Mizic, Douglas Winship, John Maddock, George Hill, Matthew Marshall, Robert McNab, Bruce Lowther and Frank Britton.

Charges of being found in a gaming house were withdrawn against Norman Balfour, Calvin Bruce Bayes and James Alfred Whan.

In reviewing the evidence of the trial, the magistrate said it was "evident that the club was a sham" and could not be classified as a club in accordance with the law.

"It was not a social club," he said. "No records were kept, there was no screening of prospective members and none of the members attended general or annual meetings."

He said there was no evidence to show it was operated for the benefit of the members.

Lloyd McKenzie, defence counsel, asked the court for a nominal sentence on the grounds that Plotnikoff believed he was operating a club in accordance with legal requirements.

"The club has operated for 17 years under the eye of the police," he said. "The operators thought they were operating a bona fide club in accordance with the law."

SPECIAL BLOOD CLINIC TO EASE HOSPITAL NEED

A special blood donors clinic will be held at Red Cross headquarters, Fort Street, at 7:30 p.m. today to meet a serious blood shortage shaping up in city hospitals.

"It's going to be touch and go for the rest of the week," said Royal Jubilee pathologist Dr. Ross McNeely. The situation will hinge on whether there is a great demand for plasma and if this occurred it would even mean cancellation of some operations.

A Canadian Red Cross report from Vancouver said the shortage has resulted in cancellation of shipments to Victoria.

Apathy on the part of possible donors has been blamed for the current shortage.

GOVERNMENT PLAN:

Safer Hunting By Education

Provincial game officials today said that education is the key to safer hunting in B.C.

Inspector Bob Sinclair said here that his department advocates a stepped-up educational program including:

A high school program which would fully acquaint young persons with the use of firearms. This would include visits to schools by local game wardens.

Widespread showing of a new safety movie now being planned. The half-hour film is to be a joint project of the provincial government and the Optimist and South Vancouver Island rangers.

Helpful "message" stories in the newspapers.

CARELESS CAUSE
Mr. Sinclair said that tests before granting licences might help cut down accidents in the bush, but that 90 per cent of such mishaps are caused by carelessness.

"If people would only wait to identify an object instead of firing at a sound we could cut out most of our accidents," he said.

Examination in the use of firearms was suggested Monday by T. I. Hughes, executive secretary of the SPCA.

He called the hunting season which has recently opened "the silly season."

Mr. Sinclair said that tests would not necessarily show how a hunter will react to a sudden situation in the bush.

He said he would prefer to see greater stress laid on educating the public.

Retired Folks' Hotel Planned

A Vancouver firm plans to build an eight-storey residential hotel for retired persons in James Bay.

The $1,000,000 building, combined with an annuity program for pre-paid lifetime rentals, would draw retired persons from all parts of Canada.

William J. Fox, representing Pacific Residential Hotels Ltd., today opened preliminary steps at City Hall towards a zoning application for the project.

The company controls some property between the legislative buildings and Beacon Hill Park where it hopes to erect the building within a year.

The high-rise structure would be a self-contained community with 136 bachelor suites and larger units.

FURNISHED ROOMS

The suites would be furnished bed-sitting rooms, with limited kitchen facilities and a bathroom. Some also would have a dining room.

Each floor would have a fully equipped kitchen which the residents could use at will. But those that preferred could eat in a main dining room.

An infirmary, beauty and barber shop and reading rooms would be included along with several hobby rooms, complete with equipment for woodworking, metal-working and other crafts, as well as several games rooms for billiards, table tennis and checkers.

BALCONIES

Many of the suites would afford views of the park and Strait of Juan de Fuca from private balconies.

Ex-School Board Member Dies

Mrs. Nellie Evelyn MacLaurin, 80, former member of the Victoria School Board and widow of B.C.'s former assistant superintendent of education, died Monday in Kirkland, Wash.

She was a former president of the Victoria College Women's Club.

Her husband, Dr. D. L. MacLaurin died two years ago.

Born in Bristol, England, she came to Victoria in 1888 and graduated from the University of Washington.

She lived in Seattle from 1946 until last year, when she moved to Kirkland. Two sons and two daughters survive.

CONTROLLED disarmament and neutralization of both halves of Germany will be advocated by Dr. James Endicott, of Toronto, Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Golden Slipper, 1318 Broad Street. The World Peace Council member, who gained wide publicity during the Korean conflict with charges the United States was engaging in germ warfare, will discuss his recent tour of Germany at the public meeting.

CONTROVERSIAL confectionery cat has friends even if municipal officials are unfriendly. Two here are Danny Helfrich, 5, and sister, Lynn, 3.

OAK BAY'S BURNING QUESTION:

Will Poor Smoky-Cat Be Fired?

By TONY DICKASON

Oak Bay authorities will "have a bit of a do" if they try to eject the cat Smoky from his confectionery home at 2205 Oak Bay Avenue.

"And," briskly affirmed the owner today, Mrs. L. M. Fisher, "I'll tell you that again."

Smoky is in the middle of an Oak Bay cat kerfuffle.

The cat is arching its back against Oak Bay council, the medical health officer and, indirectly, the provincial cabinet.

The municipality now has a bylaw banning animals from places where food is handled, passed by council Monday night.

Thus Smoky is banned from the confectionery store where he has acted as a mouser the past 15 months.

Under the Health Act, explained Reeve George Murdoch, it is up to the municipal health officer to enforce the bylaw.

If this is not done, then he could be dismissed by an order of the B.C. cabinet.

Dr. N. R. Stewart, MHO, was not available for comment.

NO BYLAW
The matter started early this year at a meeting of the municipal health board when it was found there was no bylaw prohibiting animals in food stores.

It was Dr. Stewart who brought this to the board's attention.

No action could be taken until a bylaw was brought in. This was accomplished Monday.

Now Mrs. Fisher could face possible court action resulting in a $100 fine if the cat is not kept out of the store.

The reeve said today the bylaw "has nothing to do with the cat as such. It is a general bylaw dealing with preservation of health."

Coun. Allan Cox told council: "There is no suggestion this council is out to crucify the cat. But we can't have a minority influencing the majority."

Council passed the bylaw despite a letter from Mrs. Fisher and a petition carrying 175 names from persons who don't want Smoky to go.

"SLANTED"
In her letter, Mrs. Fisher said the bylaw "has been slanted in our direction."

Smoky has no contact with the food, she stated. Food is all packaged.

The cat today was sitting coolly atop the pop cooler.

This Liquid Soot Cleaner
Perfect for Oil Furnaces

By PENNY SAVER

Although we seem to have the promise of an Indian summer ahead, let's not ignore the fact that it's high time to start thinking about getting furnaces and heaters in order for the winter months.

Liquid soot cleaner I've seen today will cut down heat loss caused by soot. It can be used for gun and pot-type oil furnaces but should not be used with wick variety. Acting on any type fuel oil, it attacks existing soot formations, helps prevent additional formations forming and attacks formation of sludge and gum deposits in oil tanks.

Cleaner will help emulsify and remove water, so preventing corrosion, and it will keep burner tips clean. Two tablespoons will clean a five-gallon tank; five ounces, 50 gallons; one pint, 150 gallons. One quart will be required if yours is a 300-gallon tank. Cleaner sells at $1.50 for a 16-ounce can.

For a coal or wood-burning furnace or heater the same firm brings out a special cleaner in powder form. This will cut through soot that forms in furnace and heat exchangers leading to individual rooms in the home. Powder cleaner is priced at 69 cents for a 12-ounce box.

Church groups and other women's clubs will be interested in sale of imported china cups and saucers now on in one downtown store. These are quite attractive, having dainty designs of lily of the valley, daisies or nosegays of flowers as trim. Believe it or not, they are being practically given away at 29 cents each! Cups and saucers would also be good for kitchen use—especially where you have small children learning to help with the washing up!

Hubby Changed Attitude

There are almost always two sides to every problem. When romance disappears and marriage becomes dull, it is sometimes the fault of one person, but not often!

I want to share the following reader's letter with you. Evidently her marriage had lost its glow and there were many arguments. She says:

"Last year I was many big pounds overweight. You've encouraged me to lose a lot of it, but this letter is in another vein. I hope my own experience will help some other wife."

"I suddenly realized that I did not even feel feminine because I had not kept myself attractive. I went to a mirror and took stock of myself. There I stood, still some overweight, my hair in strings, my nails half chewed off, my complexion blotchy—one perfect mess!

"That very night I cut and shaped my hair into a short, easy to manage style and began a daily brushing routine. The next day I gave myself a manicure. I had been making the excuse to myself that I was too busy to do all of these things."

"Money is not plentiful at our house but I decided that my marriage is as important as the bills, so last payday I bought some pretty lingerie and a well-fitting bra."

"Next payday I intend to buy material and make some new housedresses that fit me."

DEAR ABBY

It's a Biased Attitude, Honey!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: About three weeks ago I met a sailor at a dance. I am 16 and Jim is 19. We liked each other right away and he asked if he could see me again. I asked my mother and she said I couldn't go out with any sailors. I told her I was going to a girl friend's house and I went with him anyway. When I told Jim I lied to go with him he was furious and made me promise I'd never do it again. He asked if he could meet my parents and show them he was respectable. When I asked them if they would please meet Jim they said no. Abby, he's the nicest boy I've ever known, but he refuses to see me without my parent's permission. And they refuse to meet him. What should I do?

HEART-BROKEN.

DEAR HEART-BROKEN: You must accept the decision of your parents even though they are very unfair to condemn this young man and to refuse to meet him. The fact that he will not see you without your parents' permission proves he has character. Ask your parents again; perhaps they'll realize they are wrong and reconsider.

DEAR ABBY: I am fed up

Present School Games Go Back to Dark Ages

Children gathering in the yard before school, or bursting outdoors at recess, are playing the games children have always played—without realizing the history attached to many of them.

Young Roman maids skipped with twisted vines to celebrate the springtime flowers; Augustus Caesar, using nuts, played marbles with his Moorish slaves.

Hop-scotch—known then as scotch-hoppers—goes back beyond 1667 when the first account of the game was set down.

But ring-around-the-rosie—that old standby of every kindergarten teacher—has the most colorful and grim reputation.

It is thought to date back to the year of the Great Plague in London. Sufferers first showed a rosy hue. They carried nosegays of herbs and flowers to protect them—the “pocket full of posies”—and finally they reached the last stage of the disease sneezing—the “husha, husha” of the rhyme.

Then they “all fall down.” “London Bridge,” first mentioned in Tommy Thumb's Pretty Song Book in 1774, is based on fear. Bridges in those days were poorly constructed and often collapsed. Superstitious builders sometimes used the bones of children in the foundations to ensure the safety of the structures.

Marbles progressed from Caesar's day until, in England,

Curbs for Credit Buying Needed CAC Told

It's high time that government took a long look at credit systems, especially taking into consideration high interest rates, said Geoffrey Ellis, guest speaker at Monday's meeting of Victoria branch, Canadian Association of Consumers, in the Public Library's music room. Mr. Ellis is manager of Victoria Credit Bureau.

“The millions of dollars now being poured into our monetary system at fantastically high rates of interest are bound to create a false economy,” he warned.

“Unfortunately,” he continued, “you can't legalize people into using common sense and, with interest rates providing firms with such lucrative revenues, they are all for encouraging people to buy on time even when the individual has reached capacity point.”

“Buying on credit,” he continued, “is good for a country's economy and is as old as history itself, dating as far back as the Egyptians. But it should be controlled.”

The speaker cited example of English legislation which provides that no article bought on credit can be repossessed after three payments have been made and that no item of necessity can ever be repossessed. “Such controls,” he said, “make sellers more cautious.”

“Repossession,” he affirmed, “is one of the biggest abuses in our present credit system. Under the provincial government's condition of sale act any repossessed article has to be advertised and sold by auction. Money resulting from sale is credited to the customer's account.”

“However,” he cautioned, “that customer is still liable for the difference between original cost and monies received. So, although they don't even have this article any more, they're still forced to pay on the principal and interest—or else they're sued.”

“Read the fine print,” he advised, “and be cautious when dealing with high pressure salesman. Most firms employing such salesmen sell their conditions of sale to a finance company at a discount and the customer usually winds up with no guarantee, manufacturer anywhere but in British Columbia, and a finance company interested in one thing only—getting their money!”

Mrs. D. Davidson presided and speaker was thanked by Mrs. J. L. Andrews. Mrs. J. Young was welcomed as a new member-at-large.

To Investigate Tenderizing

Members of Victoria branch, Canadian Association of Consumers, at their meeting Monday voted to investigate charge that method now being used to tenderize meat added additional weight and cost to the consumer. It was stated that method used, addition of salt water, added to fluid content with no apparent benefit to purchaser.

Scarlet and White Blooms In Church for Wedding

St. Alban's Anglican Church was decorated with red gladioli, white chrysanthemums and fern for recent marriage of Beverley Cecilia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Roberts of Victoria and David Philip Simmons, son of former Victorians, Mr. and Mrs. B. G. (Barney) Simmons of New Westminster. Rev. F. W. Hayes conducted the evening ceremony. Organist was Jack Leangman.

A gown of white nylon over taffeta was worn by the bride. Its scalloped neckline was trimmed with seed pearls and sequins and dress had cap sleeves. A seed pearl coronet held her finger-tip length veil and she carried a cascade of gardenias.

Bride was escorted up the aisle by her father.

Miss Barbara Roberts, Miss Donna Haines and Miss Patricia Simmons attended the bride. They wore ballerina-length gowns in white nylon eyelet with scarlet cummerbunds. Their feather bandeaus were in red and they carried bouquets of red and white gladioli.

Best man was Jack Gray and Thomas Scrase and Kenneth Buxton ushered.

Morry Foster proposed the toast to the bride at the reception in the church hall. A heart-shaped three-tier cake decorated with red and white rosebuds centred the bridal table.

Leaving on a honeymoon to the mainland and United States, bride donned a cinnamon brown suit with brown and white accessories.

Couple are now living at 1020 Tillicum Road.

GERM, CHEMICAL WARFARE COULD WIPE OUT HUMANITY

Present capabilities for chemical and biological warfare could kill the human race, former head of the World Health Organization, Dr. Brock Chisholm of Otter Point said here over the weekend.

Speaking at the inaugural meeting of the Victoria branch, World Federalists of Canada, Dr. Chisholm warned that intense nationalism must be discarded if the threat of warfare is to be eliminated.

"Acute nationalism is an acute danger. In its place must come an undivided loyalty to the human race."

An artificial boundary which splits Saanich into two school districts may be removed if a twice-defeated school building bylaw is defeated again this fall by Central and North Saanich ratepayers.

Saanich Reeve George Chatterton Monday warned he would lead a drive for secession of rural Saanich from School District 63 if the $800,000 bylaw fails to pass.

"I will definitely advocate that all of Saanich municipality be transferred into School District 61 (Greater Victoria) if the bylaw is defeated a third time," he said.

The $800,000 blaw is needed to construct enough classrooms to end a shift system imposed this year on some 300 students in rural Saanich.

At present, the urban half of Saanich municipality is in District 61. The rural half of Saanich municipality, along with Central Saanich, North Saanich and Sidney Village comprise District 63.

Authority for switching rural Saanich from District 63 to District 61 would have to come from the government.

RUNNING FIGHT
The reeve's warning brought out into the open a running conflict between rural Saanich and the rest of District 63. Many Saanich ratepayers have claimed that the north end of the peninsula has always voted in favor of schools for its area but has defeated bylaws for schools in the rural Saanich area.

Their complaints were increased by the rejections of the current building bylaw in 1959 and early this year.

A majority in favor of the bylaw in rural Saanich polls was swamped by a heavy vote in the north end of the district, killing the bylaw.

The result this fall was that shift systems had to be introduced in rural Saanich with all junior high school grades going to Mount Newton High School and all senior students to Royal Oak High School.

BUS SERVICE
While class arrangements in the north were undisturbed, the students in rural Saanich had to participate in a complex school bus service which lengthened the school day from 7.30 a.m. to almost 5 p.m. for many.

Reeve Chatterton said the varying rates of population growth in the north and south portions of District 63 would continue.

NEW NANAIMO BRANCH
office of the Empire Stevedoring Co. will be under the management of Alex McKeachie, of Victoria. New office has been made necessary by expanding business said Vancouver Island manager F. O. Murray. Mr. McKeachie, who was assistant manager of Victoria office, was well-known athlete in his younger days.

'NO PARKING' SIGNS POSTED FOR STUDENTS

Students at Oak Bay High School soon will not be able to park on Cadboro Bay Road near the school.

Oak Bay council is putting up parking signs prohibiting parking from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 2 p.m., the times students arrive with their cars.

Parking is already prohibited on Cranmore, Christie and Armstrong, adjacent to the school.

Action was taken by council because of complaints received from persons living on Cadboro Bay Road who find they can't park their own cars on street, and there is considerable double parking when deliveries are made.

Mixed Opinion On Extended Jaycees Fair

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night will decide whether their annual fair will spill over into Victoria Day next spring.

A past president of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association Monday expressed "disappointment" with the proposal but the incumbent said it would not interfere with the association's activities.

The Jaycee fair will run May 15 to 20 and, if the membership approves, will be extended this year to include May 22, Victoria Day. In the past, the celebrations association has had sole control of Victoria Day events.

SURPRISED
"I am surprised and disappointed to hear of this suggestion," said Frank Hunter, past president and charter member of the celebrations association.

"Particularly in view of the assurances which we had been given by the Junior chamber that every effort would be made to change the dates of the exhibition to the fall."

In the past, Mr. Hunter has criticized sharply Jaycee "take over" of celebrations association events such as the Queen crowning and midway attractions.

But current association president Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said the Jaycees had offered to share any profits they make during Victoria Day.

"I feel that whatever we put on anywhere, we put it on to keep Greater Victoria people in Greater Victoria," he said. "This will not interfere with our annual Victoria Day parade."

FLOWER SOCIETY RAISES $1,000

Novice Triple Winner At Chrysanthemum Show

A novice grower, Geoff Holyhead, 3401 Cook Street, won three major trophies at the annual Victoria and District Chrysanthemum Society show held in Shelbourne Street Scout Hall Saturday.

He won the Weston Trophy for the best bloom in the show, the M. H. Roffey Trophy for the best exhibit in the novice classes, and the W. W. Levy Memorial Trophy.

C. L. Wilson won the Brown's Victoria Nurseries Trophy and a National Chrysanthemum Society certificate in the championship class.

Tag Day for Orphans
Saturday, Oct. 1, will be the annual tag day for the B.C. Protestant Orphanage.

Canvassers are still needed. Those wishing to donate services on behalf of the children may contact Mrs. J. McArthur at EV 4-2676.

The Centennial Perpetual tray, the Cec Fletcher Trophy, the F. W. Francis Trophy and the NCS Silver Medal for the highest aggregate, were all won by A. H. Anderson.

Mrs. T. T. Vaulkhard won the Perpetual Rose Bowl, Art Hadfield the Sidney Roofing and Paper Co. Trophy, while Mrs. Anderson won a NCS certificate for a basket containing 43 blooms.

OTHER WINNERS
Other prize winners were: W. Pember, F. Julian, Y. R. Rhodes, A. W. Renfrew, W. J. Roper, J. Caddell, George Heath, W. Woodward, T. Renfrew, W. W. Melville, George Wiggan, Mrs. S. Foubister and G. Bentham.

In the floral arrangement section, Mrs. G. Wiggan won the highest aggregate.

Society officials reported the show was a financial success. A total of $1,000 was raised to help renovate the Scout Hall.

New West Protest On Berlin Status

BERLIN (UPI)—The United States, Britain and France sent another note to the Soviet Union today reasserting Berlin's four-power status and protesting anew against Communist travel restrictions in the city.

The note, signed by the western commandants in Berlin and delivered by French commandant Gen. Jean Lacomme to Soviet commandant Maj. Gen. Nikolai Zakharov, also warned the Russians they will be held responsible for any interference with the three western air corridors to the isolated city.

The western note replied to a Soviet note of Sept. 13 which in turn answered an allied protest over travel restrictions.

The new message stressed that the western allies retain full rights throughout Berlin, and that East Berlin is not part of East Germany.

The East Germans claim all four-power agreements on the city are dead.

The Soviet Union cannot reject the responsibility for Berlin it shares with France, Great Britain and the United States," the note said.

"The three allied powers . . . continue to make the Soviet government fully and completely responsible for air security, which it has to guarantee, in the air corridors."

On Aug. 31 the Soviet clamped a rigid five-day check on all West Germans traveling to Berlin to weed out alleged "militarists and revanchists" attending a refugee meeting here. They also barred West Germans from East Berlin during the meeting.

On Sept. 8, they closed East Berlin to all West Germans without a special visa.

Today's note said both actions "openly violate the right of free travel within Berlin and are in direct contradiction to the Paris agreement of June 20, 1949."

This agreement ended the Berlin blockade.

The note made no mention of the East German attempt to control "U.S. ambassador Walter C. Dowling as he entered East Berlin last Thursday."

The United States protested the East German action to Zakharov Monday, saying the Communist police had no authority over Dowling.

Ultimatum Given Ghana By Mobutu

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Congolese Army strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu gave Ghana and Guinea troops two weeks to pull out of the Congo, in retaliation against their support of deposed premier Patrice Lumumba, army sources reported.

They said Mobutu delivered his ultimatum at a meeting between representatives of his "College of High Commissioners" and representatives of the United Nations here.

Mobutu, who took over the Congo earlier this month, also moved ahead with plans for a round table conference of warring Congolese political factions to stabilize the government.

He was reported to have been acting under army pressure and to have notified both President Joseph Kasavubu, who deposed Lumumba earlier this month, and the deposed premier, of his intentions. Lumumba was reported to have agreed to the project. Kasavubu's reaction was not immediately known.

$1 Million Fire Damage At Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Five firemen suffered minor injuries Monday night when the second floor of a building collapsed during a three-alarm fire in central Vancouver.

Fireman Ron Williams, 27, was taken to hospital with a leg cut, suffered when he was forced to leap from a window as the roof of the building collapsed at the height of the blaze.

Another fireman was treated for a cut knee and released. Two others suffered minor cuts and another was overcome by smoke.

There were no other reported injuries in the stubborn fire, which caused an estimated $1,000,000 damage.

DRYGOODS BUILDING

The blaze broke out in the industrial section at Fourth and Main Streets in the wholesale drygoods building of Hamilton Harvey Ltd.

Goods in the building, which was demolished, ranged from chesterfields to electrical appliances, and were insured for $500,000.

The fire is believed to have started on the top floor and quickly spread to the main floor area. The owners, working in the warehouse of the building, said they heard an explosion on the second floor, investigated and turned in the first alarm about 6:30 p.m.

It was not brought under control until 9 p.m.

Khrushchev Will Meet Macmillan

NEW YORK (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev today indicated a willingness to meet with British Prime Minister Macmillan. But he evaded saying whether he would meet face to face with President Eisenhower as suggested at the United Nations by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

The Russian premier spoke briefly to newsmen outside the Russians' Park Avenue headquarters shortly after he met with eight satellite leaders.

A newsmen shouted to Khrushchev: "Do you plan to meet with Prime Minister Macmillan?"

Khrushchev, through an interpreter replied, "Yes, whenever we can arrange a meeting."

A United Press International newsmen then shouted to Khrushchev "What about a meeting with President Eisenhower?"

The Russian leader, shaking his finger at the newsmen, Edward McCarthy, said "Did he entrust you with the task of arranging a meeting with me?"

The newsmen shouted back "The suggestion was made by President Nasser." But Khrushchev with a slight shrug of his shoulders turned and reentered the delegation building.

Khrushchev and his guests appeared dour and refused earlier to answer questions when they arrived at the Soviet UN mission headquarters for an apparent strategy meeting.

ELECTION FIGHT CONTINUES

(See earlier story on page 10)

One recount and two rechecks were set today as three CCF candidates still fought the B.C. election of Sept. 12.

Fred Wood, in Comox, 38 votes behind Social Credit Dan Campbell after Monday's final count, has asked for a full recount.

Colin Cameron, 70 votes behind Recreation Minister Westwood in Nanaimo, said today a recheck will start Wednesday on the validity of ballots.

Evan McDougall, in Yale, trailing Irvine Corbett of the Socials by 25 votes, told the Times there will be a recheck, but that he is undecided about a full recount.

A full recount requires an application through the courts with an affidavit.

A recheck, which may be obtained on request of observers at earlier counts, is to establish the validity of votes already counted and if all rejects are valid.

Majority of Africans Resist Attack on UN

Ike, Mac Urge Problems Faced

NEW YORK (UPI)—A "great majority" of the African nations support UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold in the face of Soviet attacks, a U.S. state department spokesman said today.

The statement came after President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan voiced full support for Hammarskjold and called on the United Nations to get down to serious work on disarmament and other problems.

Eisenhower received assurances from an Ethiopian spokesman that Ethiopia backs the secretary-general in the crisis created by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's demand that he be replaced by a Soviet-style three-man presidium, or directorate.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodian chief of state, also pledged strong support to the United Nations after a conference with the president. "We feel that the great majority of African nations—new nations and older UN nations, are in strong support of Hammarskjold, Andrew Berding the state department spokesman said.

Talks With Foreign Chiefs 'Cordial'

The state department spokesman also said that Eisenhower's meetings with a long list of foreign leaders have been "about as cordial as you could want . . . fruitful . . . extremely useful."

Eisenhower added another world dignitary to his appointments series by scheduling a meeting with Crown Prince Hassan of Morocco.

The expression of support for Hammarskjold by Ethiopia was relayed to the president by Deputy Prime Minister Akilou Abte Wold, the number two man in Ethiopia.

Berding said the two men agreed that aid to the crisis-ridden Congo should be channeled through the United Nations and called for full support of the Secretary-General.

The president began his personal diplomacy today with a two and a half hour discussion with Macmillan over a bacon-and-egg breakfast.

The chief executive seemed to be gaining ground rapidly in his efforts to scuttle

'Complete Agreement' on Role of UN

The British-American statement said the president and prime minister "were in complete agreement as to the vital role of the United Nations, particularly in the Congo crisis and the need to give full support to the secretary in his task."

The statement began by saying that the prime minister and the president at their meeting "reviewed the situation in the General Assembly of the United Nations and considered the policies best pursued by their two countries toward their common goal."

Hagerty said Eisenhower and Macmillan have been in constant touch across the Atlantic during the past week to discuss the plans for blocking Khrushchev's efforts to oust Hammarskjold and alter the structure of the world organization.

U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home joined the president and prime minister after breakfast.

The president, according to Hagerty, has no plans to see any other foreign leaders after his afternoon appointment with Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker. He will return to Washington by air in mid-afternoon.

Nor does the president have any present plans to return to New York for another address to the United Nations.

Socreds Retain 3 Seats on Absentee Votes

The Social Credit government has held its strength in the B.C. legislature with three narrow victories eked out in final counting of ballots cast in the general election.

The Socreds kept Yale by 25 votes.

They retained Comox by 38 votes.

They held Nanaimo by 70 votes.

Standing in the 52-seat legislature remains Social Credit 32, CCF 16, Liberal 4.

In a fourth borderline seat, northerly Atlin, CCFer Frank Calder increased his lead when absentee ballots were tallied.

Trailing Sofred Dan Campbell by 116 after the general election, Fred Wood, CCF, picked up a majority of absentee ballots to put him within 38.

In Nanaimo, where Recreation Minister Earle Westwood held his seat by a reduced margin of 70 over CCFer Colin Cameron.

The Nanaimo victory leaves Premier Bennett's way clear for a cabinet reorganization. He was awaiting the results of Monday's count before considering successors for Labor Minister Wicks and Agriculture Minister Steacy, defeated Sept. 12.

In Atlin, Calder picked up 444 absentee votes; Sofred William Asselstine got 267.

One poll, at Aiyansh, is being challenged because of an alleged fault in numbering of the ballots.

All 72 votes there were cast for Calder. But loss of these still wouldn't affect his victory.

Premier Bennett was reported elated at the results. CCF leader Robert Strachan had high hopes of winning at least one of the three closest seats.

Said victor Westwood: "I was particularly pleased because there is so much to be done in my particular field in B.C."

Here are the final tallies in the close ridings. Other ridings changed slightly, but there was no chance of an upset.

Comox—Campbell, 6,102; Wood, 6,064; Baikie, Liberal, 2,747; Gray, Conservative, 665; Higgin, Communist, 207.

Nanaimo—Westwood, 4,621; Cameron, 4,551; Heath, Liberal, 1,036; Strongtharm, Conservative, 605; Mortinson, Communist, 70.

Yale—Corbett, 1,126; McDougall, 1,101; Collett, Liberal, 964; Lauder, Conservative, 388.

CITY BRIEFS

Flower 'Business' Overtaxed

City parks administrator W. H. Warren Monday recommended that the city stop providing flower boxes and baskets to downtown merchants.

Parks Committee recommended that city council approve the proposal.

Mr. Warren said the civic nursery has become overcrowded and rather than expand facilities at present, the sideline project of supplying the flower containers at cost to about 100 merchants should be dropped.

He said several commercial nurseries have indicated they could make up the flower boxes and baskets for merchants.

The city-owned flower baskets hung from cluster light standards would not be affected by the move.

Parks committee decided to investigate further the possibility of letting all maintenance work at Ross Bay Cemetery out to contract, although Mr. Warren said city crews would have greater flexibility in doing the work than a commercial company.

A proposal by the Diamond C Ranch to operate a horse rental service in Thetis Lake Park was rejected.

Committee members indicated horses might be permitted in the seldom-visited northeast corner of the park but they would be banned from the central lake area.

Friday Deadline For Inclusion On Voters' List

About 400 persons on last year's civic voters' list have only until Friday to make the 1960 list, City Clerk Frank Hunter warned Monday.

Some 1,900 forms have been sent out to tenant and resident electors who are required to confirm their addresses before going on the list but only 1,500 have, he said.

Only 157 newcomers in the two categories have had their names added to the list since it opened in August so the net drop in the total so far is about 250.

Friday at 5 p.m. is the deadline for inclusion in civic voters' lists throughout B.C.

New West Protest
On Berlin Status

BERLIN (UPI)—The United States, Britain and France sent another note to the Soviet Union today reasserting Berlin's four-power status and protesting anew against Communist travel restrictions in the city.

The note, signed by the western commanders in Berlin and delivered by French commandant Gen. Jean Lamotte to Soviet commandant Maj. Gen. Nikolai Zakharov, also warned the Russians they will be held responsible for any interference with the three western air corridors to the isolated city.

The western note replied to a Soviet note of Sept. 13 which in turn answered an allied protest over travel restrictions.

ELECTION

(See earlier story on page 10)

One recount and two rechecks were set today as three CCF candidates still fought the B.C. election of Sept. 12.

Fred Wood, in Comox, 38 votes behind Social Credit Dan Campbell after Monday's final count, has asked for a full recount.

Colin Cameron, 70 votes behind Recreation Minister Westwood in Nanaimo, said today a recheck will start Wednesday on the validity of ballots.

Evan McDougall, in Yale, trailing Irvine Corbett of the Socials by 25 votes, told the Times there will be a recheck, but that he is undecided about a full recount.

A full recount requires an application through the courts with an affidavit.

A recheck, which may be obtained on request of observers at earlier counts, is to establish the validity of votes already counted and if all rejects are valid.

AFRICANS PLEDGE
SUPPORT TO DAGKhrushchev
Will Meet
Macmillan

NEW YORK (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev today indicated a willingness to meet with British Prime Minister Macmillan. But he evaded saying whether he would meet face to face with President Eisenhower as suggested at the United Nations by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

The Russian premier spoke briefly to newsmen outside the Russians' Park Avenue headquarters shortly after he met with eight satellite leaders.

A newsmen shouted to Khrushchev: "Do you plan to meet with Prime Minister Macmillan?"

Khrushchev, through an interpreter replied, "Yes, whenever we can arrange a meeting."

A United Press International newsmen then shouted to Khrushchev "What about a meeting with President Eisenhower?"

The Russian leader, shaking his finger at the newsmen, Edward McCarthy, said "Did he entrust you with the task of arranging a meeting with me?"

The newsmen shouted back "The suggestion was made by President Nasser." But Khrushchev with a slight shrug of his shoulders turned and reentered the delegation building.

Khrushchev and his guests appeared dour and refused earlier to answer questions when they arrived at the Soviet UN mission headquarters for an apparent strategy meeting.

Ultimatum
Given Ghana
By Mobutu

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Congolese Army strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu gave Ghana and Guinea troops two weeks to pull out of the Congo, in retaliation against their support of deposed premier Patrice Lumumba, army sources reported.

They said Mobutu delivered his ultimatum at a meeting between representatives of his "College of High Commissioners" and representatives of the United Nations here.

Mobutu, who took over the Congo earlier this month, also moved ahead with plans for a round table conference of warring Congolese political factions to stabilize the government.

He was reported to have been acting under army pressure and to have notified both President Joseph Kasavubu, who deposed Lumumba earlier this month, and the deposed premier, of his intentions. Lumumba was reported to have agreed to the project. Kasavubu's reaction was not immediately known.

Nasser Asks
Summit Talk'Man in Middle' in Behind-Scenes
Diplomacy Wants Arms Talk Resumed

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Intense private diplomacy erupted into the open today when President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic asked the 15th General Assembly to request a summit meeting on disarmament between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Khrushchev, meanwhile, submitted a resolution to bring so-called neutral nations into the 10-nation disarmament committee whose deliberations collapsed in June.

Nasser—who earlier met separately with Khrushchev and Eisenhower—has been near the heart of a swirl of behind-the-scenes diplomacy that gained in intensity with the arrival of more and more heads of government at this historic assembly session.

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, en route to a luncheon appointment with India's Prime Minister Nehru, could not be reached for comment immediately on the new proposals but it was noted he spoke with Nasser Monday.

Khrushchev's call for additional members on the East-West 10-nation disarmament committee was hinted at last week in his policy speech to the General Assembly—a speech that was sharply criticized by Diefenbaker Monday.

Nasser said both Eisenhower and Khrushchev have expressed willingness to discuss disarmament again. Nasser declared:

"We therefore suggest that the General Assembly recommend that the two great leaders should, under the standard of the United Nations, meet either by themselves or together with whom you select among those who are present here, in order for them all to put, under the aegis of the United Nations, guiding rules for a new attempt toward disarmament."

MORE MEMBERS

Khrushchev's proposal called for an increase of the disarmament committee, which has five Communist members and five Western members, including Canada, to 15 members by the addition of India, Indonesia, the United Arab Republic, Ghana and Mexico.

The Communist members walked out of the committee in Geneva in June, saying they would bring up the whole arms question at the current assembly.

Ike, Mac Urge
UN to Face
Major Problems

NEW YORK (UPI)—A "great majority" of the African nations support UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold in the face of Soviet attacks, a U.S. state department spokesman said today.

The statement came after President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan voiced full support for Hammarskjold and called on the United Nations to get down to serious work on disarmament and other problems.

Eisenhower received assurances from an Ethiopian spokesman that Ethiopia backs the secretary-general in the crisis created by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's demand that he be replaced by a Soviet-style three-man presidium, or directorate.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodian chief of state, also pledged strong support to the United Nations after a conference with the president. "We feel that the great majority of African nations—new nations and older UN nations, are in strong support of Hammarskjold, Andrew Berding the state department spokesman said.

Talks With Foreign Chiefs 'Cordial'

The state department spokesman also said that Eisenhower's meetings with a long list of foreign leaders have been "about as cordial as you could want... extremely useful."

Eisenhower added another world dignity to his appointments series by scheduling a meeting with Crown Prince Hassan of Morocco. The expression of support for Hammarskjold by Ethiopia was relayed to the president by Deputy Prime Minister Akilou Abte Wold, the number two man in Ethiopia.

Berding said the two men agreed that aid to the crisis-ridden Congo should be channeled through the United Nations and called for full support of the Secretary-General.

The president began his personal diplomacy today with a two and a half hour discussion with Macmillan over a bacon-and-egg breakfast.

The chief executive seemed to be gaining ground rapidly in his efforts to scuttle Khrushchev's proposals to revamp the world peace agency by giving the Communists a veto in the secretariat.

Macmillan was Eisenhower's first caller today. The president and prime minister, together for two and a half hours, urged the Assembly to go to work on the problem of disarmament. The United States is pushing a resolution that would instruct the major powers to resume the 10-nation talks which the Russians broke up in Geneva when they walked out last June 27.

White House news secretary James C. Hagerty, speaking on behalf of himself and British spokesman John Russell, disclosed the president's and prime minister's determination to resist to the utmost Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's demand that UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold be ousted, and his place taken by a three-nation committee composed of one Communist, one neutralist and one westerner.

The British-American statement said the president and prime minister "were in complete agreement as to the vital role of the United Nations, particularly in the Congo crisis and the need to give full support to the secretary in his task."

The statement began by saying that the prime minister and the president at their meeting "reviewed the situation in the General Assembly of the United Nations and considered the policies best pursued by their two countries toward their common goal."

Hagerty said Eisenhower and Macmillan have been in constant touch across the Atlantic during the past week to discuss the plans for blocking Khrushchev's efforts to oust Hammarskjold and alter the structure of the world organization.

U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home joined the president and prime minister after breakfast.

The president, according to Hagerty, has no plans to see any other foreign leaders after his afternoon appointment with Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker. He will return to Washington by air in mid-afternoon.

Nor does the president have any present plans to return to New York for another address to the United Nations.

$1 Million Damage

Another fireman was treated for a cut knee and released. Two others suffered minor

Flaming Death for 30 In Crash of Airliner

MOSCOW (AP)—A four-engined Austrian turbo-prop airliner crashed in fog and rain near Moscow airport Monday night. An Austrian Embassy spokesman said 30 of the 37 persons aboard died in the fiery wreckage.

All seven survivors were reported injured.

They included two attaches at the U.S. Embassy here—air force Maj. Edward Wooten and army Maj. Willis H. Knipe.

The Austrian spokesman said one of the British-built Viscount's four engines apparently caught fire during the approach to the airport. The airliner tore into a wooded area west of the airport, leaving a 400-yard gash in the field before coming to a halt.

It immediately burst into flames, burning at least 25 of the victims.

The wife of Major Wooten told newspaper men after a visit to her husband in the hospital that he was "not too badly off." Major Knipe suffered burns.

The two Americans were travelling with two other western military attaches, Sqdn. Ldr. L. J. Cooke, the assistant British air attaché, and Lt. Col. Paul Bertrand, the assistant French air attaché.

Wooten told his wife that Cooke was killed and Bertrand injured.

The plane, on a flight from Vienna to Moscow's Sheremetyevo airport, crashed in a remote area of fields and woods near the little town of Trukovo, four miles from Moscow.

A spokesman for the Austrian Airlines said five of the six crew members were killed. An Austrian hostess escaped.

Burned Up at Boy Friend? Not Ever-Loving Margaret

LONDON (AP)—Douglas Guest, 23, was brought into court at Rotherham, in Yorkshire, Monday, accused of assaulting his girl friend, Margaret Farmer.

She tormented him, he said, and he was madly jealous.

One evening, testified prosecutor Charles Shaw, Guest dragged 19-year-old Margaret to a hotel parking lot and told her:

"I am going to make your face so nobody else will look at you."

He burned her cheek with a cigaret.

The next night he forced his way into her home, hit her and kicked her.

The night after that Margaret got a cigaret burn on the other cheek.

Margaret's ardor wasn't diminished.

"I still love him," she told the magistrates. "I have forgiven him—and I want to marry him."

Guest was found guilty and fined £17.

Boy, 15, Charged With Killing Mother of Three

CAPEROL, Ont. (CP)—A 15-year-old Caperol boy appeared before a magistrate at nearby Sudbury today and was remanded to juvenile court on a charge of murder in the Saturday night knife-slaying of Mrs. Rose Kennedy, 24.

The mother of three young children was slashed to death in the kitchen of her home.

Magistrate Anthony Falzetta went to the governor's office of the Sudbury district jail and held a brief closed hearing at which the boy was remanded for one week.

In cases before a juvenile court nothing may be published to indicate the identity of the child.

Watson Kennedy, 24, discovered the body of his wife, Rose, on the blood-spattered kitchen floor when he returned from a hockey game. His three children, Janice, five; Susan, three, and William, 18 months, were crying in a bedroom adjoining the kitchen of the three-room home.

The eldest girl is believed to be the only witness to the killing.

Police arrested the suspect Monday after they were told a boy had been in the Kennedy home.

Police said Mrs. Kennedy had not been sexually assaulted. There was no evidence of robbery.

Brighten Package, Canadians Advised

BY FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Distinctive Canadian packaging could increase sales of Canadian products to other countries, says L. G. Jamison of Toronto, general manager of the Packaging Association of Canada. He adds:

"English biscuits, Dutch chocolates, American soft drinks, can all be recognized anywhere in the world because of their distinctive packages. In almost every instance the Canadian manufacturer of a quality product uses a package which is identical, or at least very similar, to a competitive product from Britain or the United States."

Mr. Jamison made his comment as a preliminary to the Canadian National Packaging Exposition which will be held in Toronto Nov. 1 to Nov. 3.

MANY DISPLAYS

About 15,000 businessmen from Canada, the United States and Europe are expected to attend and will see some 170 displays.

Featured will be new adaptations of paper and cardboard to various packaging functions. New products will include shrinking plastic wrapping which binds itself around the product; medicine bottles which can be opened with one hand; plastic jugs in sizes up to a gallon, and lightweight polyethylene bags of 100-pound capacity.

Gordon Rolph of Toronto, president of the packaging association, says the Canadian packaging industry has passed $700,000,000 in annual sales.

Macmillan has not ruled out the possibility of meeting Khrushchev in new talks but Eisenhower has firmly rejected any suggestion of talking with the Russian unless he released two downed RB-47 flyers and met other unspecified conditions.

First U.S. reaction to Khrushchev's disarmament proposal was cool, a spokesman saying the problem is not the structure of the disarmament group but "of willingness of the Soviet Union to negotiate an equitable and realistic agreement."

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain
And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

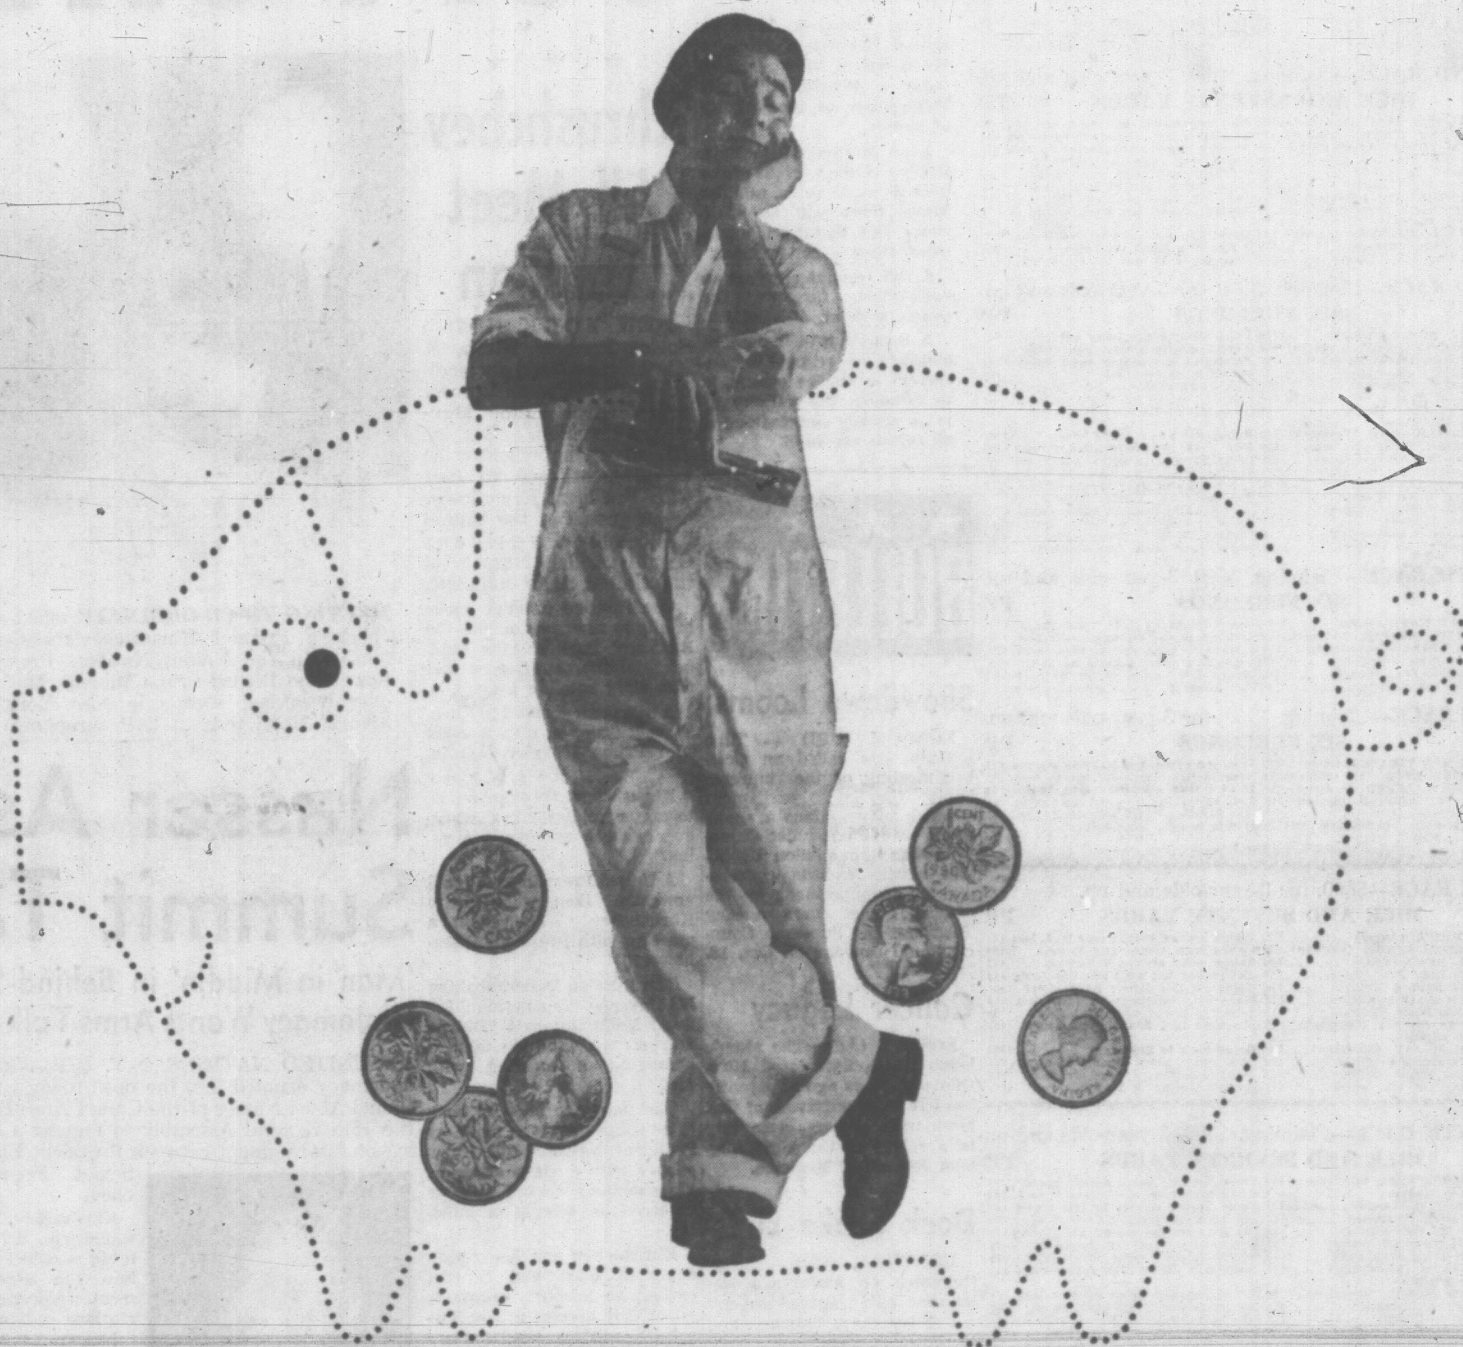

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

build with a piggy-bank budget Money is the most important material of all in any building or remodelling project. Contractors know it. Do-it-yourselfers know it.

But in building or remodelling a large amount of money does not automatically ensure quality. It helps, but it's no guarantee.

The guarantee of quality lies in the material, and fortunately, Western Gypsum products can provide the quality guarantee along with honest-to-goodness economy.

That's one of the reasons why Western Gypsum products are kept busy in homes, on farms, in industry—wherever economy is as important as good, solid, fireproof construction.

Before you build, before you remodel or repair, find out how Western Gypsum products can do the job better, easier, and save you money. If you need a specialist to help, your supplier can make suggestions.
